IL DUCE'S PLAN TO KEEP PEACE FOR 10 YEARS ACCEPTED BY PARIS, LONDON, BERLIN, ROME

FINANCING PLANS FOR JOB PROGRAM ASSUMING SHAPE

Democratic Proposals Apparently Will Omit General Manufacturers' Sales Tax; House Committee To Report Today.

HOPE TO COMPLETE PLANS BY JUNE 10

Leaders Prepare To Receive Last of Emergency Measures To Provide for Reciprocal Tariffs.

WASHINGTON, May 21.—(AP)—A revenue raising schedule to finance the Roosevelt job-giving public works program began to take definite form on Capitol Hill today under pressure of democratic leaders to expedite action on all pending administration emergency measures with a view to putting them on the law books by June 10, the desired date for dissolving the special session.

Members of the powerful house ways and means committee readied themselves to decide finally tomorrow upon the vital tax phase of the $3,300,000,000 industrial recovery bill. The senate finance committee is prepared for early hearings on the measure.

Republican house members set up a clamor today for a manufacturers' sales levy to raise the $220,000,000 needed annually for interest and amortization charges against the huge bond issue. Democrats indicated, however, they would favor increases in normal income tax rates, making corporate dividends subject to them, and an upward hike in the gasoline tax.

Tariffs Last.

Meanwhile, congressional leaders prepared to receive the last of President Roosevelt's emergency proposals—those to provide authority for drawing reciprocal tariffs and reorganization of the government. Although it is considered extremely likely that the tariff request will be sent to the capitol, the chief executive himself has not stated definitely and finally that he will dispatch it.

Aboard the government yacht Sequoia for a cruise down the Potomac river over the week-end, Mr. Roosevelt went over the government reorganization plan with Lewis W. Douglas, director of the budget. An executive order putting the changes into effect probably will be sent to congress within a few days.

Mr. Roosevelt and Secretary Hull, who will head the American delegation to the London economic conference, have scheduled a conference for tomorrow upon the concededly controversial tariff question. From this parley is expected to come the decision upon sending the request to congress.

Democratic leaders have promised quick consideration. But at the same time they admit it would arouse considerable debate. Both at the White

Seven Persons Killed In Skiff Explosion

QUEBEC, May 21.—(AP)—Seven men were killed, one was injured and five escaped unhurt when a stick of dynamite exploded in a log driver's skiff on Lac Creux, about 60 miles from Quebec.

The accident occurred Saturday in a 28-foot skiff in which 13 men were crossing Lac Creux.

George Aude, 22-year-old foreman, is said to have accidentally touched off one of the 50 sticks of dynamite carried in the skiff's prow. The men were thrown in all directions by the force of the explosion and the skiff was wrecked.

Machado Foe Winning Fight With Influenza

MIAMI, Fla., May 21.—(AP)—General Mario G. Menocal, former president of Cuba, was reported able to sit up for several hours today at his home here where he is recovering from a recent attack of influenza.

Members of his household said they were "amazed" at reports from Cuba that General Menocal had landed in Oriente province, Cuba, and was leading an armed expedition against the present Cuban administration. He has been confined to his home for several weeks by illness.

Prisoner Redecorating His Cell To Suit Self

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., May 21.—(AP)—Gus Pusateri has five months in which to complete his decorating job in his cell in the county jail. Pusateri, sentenced for selling liquor, didn't like its drab appearance. The sheriff agreed he might "do it over" at his own expense. Pusateri decided upon aluminum colored bars, red floor and white walls. It will cost him $20.

DELAY ARRANGED IN HARRIMAN TRIAL SLATED FOR TODAY

Aged Banker Held Under Guard at Hospital To Prevent Second Attempt at Suicide.

NEW YORK, May 21.—(AP)—Nurses and guards watched at the bedside of Joseph W. Harriman in a Mineola hospital today to prevent the 68-year-old indicted banker, who stabbed himself over the heart with a 50-cent knife, from making a second attempt at suicide.

His life apparently saved because the knife struck a rib, Harriman was described by his physicians as "certainly not in a serious condition."

Hospital authorities said the banker was resting comfortably 24 hours after he tried to kill himself in an obscure inn at Roslyn, where he had gone following his disappearance from a nursing home.

Harriman was scheduled to go on trial tomorrow on charges of falsifying records of the Harriman National Bank and Trust Company but George S. Leisure, his attorney, said an agreement had been reached with United States Attorney George Z. Medalie to postpone it a week because of the trial of Charles E. Mitchell, whom Medalie is prosecuting. It will not be necessary for Harriman to go to court tomorrow, Leisure said, and he probably will remain in the hospital until Tuesday.

Meanwhile two representatives of his bonding company and a federal agent stood guard over Harriman. The bonding company men, on duty all last night and today, called private detectives to relieve them.

The aged man was placed in a ground floor room in order, police said, that he could not try to kill himself by jumping from a window. An adjoining room was assigned to Mrs. Harriman, who came to the hospital late yesterday.

Harriman's physicians examined his heart and expressed the opinion its condition was normal for a man of his age. He had been staying at the nursing home for treatment for what had been termed a serious heart ailment.

His own nurse and two others from the hospital attended Harriman during the day, and two hospital nurses were assigned to night duty in his room.

A careful examination and X-ray photographs showed the wound was not as deep as had been thought following the stabbing, which took place after Harriman had asked police to leave his hotel room while he dressed.

More Levees Crumble In Arkansas Region

MEMPHIS, Tenn., May 21.—(AP)—The soggy, overburdened St. Francis river levee system collapsed near Bertig, Ark., early this morning, flooding additional thousands of acres and driving hundreds of families from their homes.

A rapid series of breaks, 14 in all, began about 3 o'clock this morning. They will affect both the Missouri and Arkansas sides of the river, flooding about 50,000 acres.

When the water at last cut through the dikes, the soggy earth gave away rapidly and by this afternoon some of the breaks were 250 feet wide.

Dunklin county, Missouri, and Greene, Craighead and Clay counties in Arkansas were in the path of most of the water. Levee commissioners in Dunklin county estimated that an additional 5,000 acres would be flooded there, where 45,000 acres already are under water and nearly a million dollars' damage has been done.

Baffled Bonus Army Quits Capital Today

WASHINGTON, May 21.—(UP) The bonus army said its farewell to Washington at the tomb of the Unknown Soldier today.

By tomorrow morning one-third of the veterans will be on the back-trail toward home, and the other two-thirds will be enrolled in the reforestation corps. All of the men are disappointed, many are bitter, for they depart without coming any closer to the goal that brought them here—payment of the bonus.

Bonus sentiment in congress is at its lowest ebb and President Roosevelt told the men he would veto immediate payment of the adjusted service certificates even if congress voted to pay them.

Settlement Is Seen In Leticia Dispute

LIMA, May 21.—(AP)—Available evidence here today as Alfonso Lopez, Colombian negotiator, left for his home capital, was that the Leticia dispute had entered upon the road toward peaceful solution. The conversations of Senor Lopez with President Benavides, of Peru, were carried on constantly in a cordial atmosphere, according to those in touch with developments.

YOUTH DROWNED, 5 OTHERS RESCUED AS BOAT CAPSIZES

M. J. Cartin, 21, Victim of Accident at Ward's Lake on McDonough Road; in Water 20 Minutes.

Thrown into 15 feet of water when an overloaded rowboat capsized, Marion Joseph (Bud) Cartin, 21, son of the Rev. and Mrs. John Cartin, of 1370 Glenwood avenue, Sunday afternoon was drowned in Ward's lake, on old McDonough road. Five companions who could not swim were rescued by friends.

Cartin's body was recovered from the lake 20 minutes after the accident, and an inhaler brought to the scene by Patterson's ambulance was used for more than an hour before efforts to revive the youth were abandoned as hopeless.

Bill McConnell, of 513 Boulevard, S. E., who was swimming by the boat; Charles Wells, of 1369 Glenwood; Hoke Wells, of 1369 Glenwood, and John Bowers, of 634 Brownwood, were among the rescuers. Wells and Bowers were standing on the bank when the boat overturned.

Among those rescued were Miss Frances Hamilton, of Broyles street, and Miss Ruth Hughes. Another girl and two other boys were in the boat when it capsized. The three girls lost their pocketbooks overboard, one of the purses containing a valuable diamond and watch, it was said.

Dr. Emmett Ward, of 634 Flat Shoals, owner of the lake, aided in the efforts to revive Cartin. Dr. Ward said that he was at the other end of the lake with a friend when the boat overturned. The party was boating without his permission, the lake not having been opened to the public, Dr. Ward said.

"This is a private lake built for my own personal use, and the party which went boating this afternoon did so after being cautioned by the caretakers, Mr. and Mrs. W. T. DeLoach and J. T. Shupe, that it was a private lake not open to the public," Dr. Ward said.

Spectators said that the small boat was so overloaded with six persons that when it got out in the middle of the lake and titlted the slightest bit the gunwale went under and the boat rapidly filled up and sank, spilling the occupants into the water. All of the occupants except one boy, whose name could not be learned, were in bathing suits. The fully-clad youth was semi-conscious when dragged from the water, but was revived in a few minutes, it was said.

All of the rescued persons left the lake a short time after the accident, badly shaken by their experience but apparently unharmed physically, it was said.

Young Cartin is survived by his parents, four sisters, Mrs. Charles Kiker, Mrs. Ruth Knighton, Miss Mary Cartin and Miss Eleanor Cartin, and a brother, Louis Cartin.

Members of the family said that when Cartin left home Sunday afternoon they did not know where he was going.

Cartin's body was taken to the funeral parlors of H. M. Patterson & Son pending funeral arrangements.

Banks Found Guilty, Wife Freed in Killing

EUGENE, Ore., May 21.—(AP)—A circuit court jury today convicted Llewellyn A. Banks, 62, former editor and orchardist, of second-degree murder for the death March 16 of George Prescott, Medford, constable. Edith Robertina Banks, jointly tried with her husband on a charge of first-degree murder, was acquitted.

The story of the man who made millions and lost them in fruit growing and packing operations in Iowa and California, who turned newspaper publisher, was defeated for a seat in the United States senate, and finally shot and killed a constable who was arresting him on a burglary charge, was told and retold by witnesses.

Banks admitted firing the fatal shot as Prescott and a state policeman tried to gain admission to the Banks home. Banks testified he fired because he believed his life and the life of Mrs. Banks were in danger. Prescott, he declared, had made repeated threats to kill him. He added, "If they had been where they belonged, no one would have been killed."

The prosecution insisted Prescott was shot to death deliberately and in cold blood.

Police Sunday were holding a negro man and woman on suspicion, but said they probably would release them this morning.

The two held on suspicion are James Brown, 26, of 91 Vine street, and Dora Maxey, 36, who was arrested by Detectives W. B. Martin and D. T. Taylor on an anonymous "tip" by telephone.

Mr. Almand is survived by his mother, Mrs. F. M. Almand; two brothers, H. V. and H. S. Almand, and three sisters, Mrs. Flonnie Hester and Miss Madge Almand, all of Atlanta, and Mrs. C. F. Hooper, of Cedartown. Funeral arrangements will be announced by A. S. Turner.

Pastors Attack, Key Defends Council Legalization of Beer

Atlanta Happier Than It Has Been Since Armistice, Mayor Tells Class; Folkston Sheriff Seizes Load; Test Cases Awaited.

As some Atlanta ministers spoke in general terms of law enforcement Sunday, with casual references to beer, Mayor James L. Key, addressing his Bible class, said that Atlanta was happier Saturday with the beverage legalized by the city than it had been since the armistice, happy "because we felt a new spirit of freedom."

And as Atlanta continued to drink the 3.2, light and dark, under sweltering skies Sunday, Georgia police officers continued to seize cars carrying the beverage and to hold the drivers. At Folkston, near Brunswick, Sheriff J. O. Sikes held up a truck bearing a Georgia license loaded with 120 cases and jailed Albert Ray and a negro driver. Ray told the sheriff he was bound for Wilmington, N. C.

With sales continuing brisk by those places already licensed, many would-be dealers were pursuing a policy of watchful waiting until two test cases, against Jim Falk, 131 Central avenue, and Roy Young, 39 Pryor street, are tried before Judge Jesse M. Wood in municipal court. Both were placed under arrest Saturday by deputies from Sheriff Lowdy's office.

A renaissance through rebellion of the people will lead the way back to prosperity and peace, Mayor Key told his class at the Georgia theater Sunday morning and more than 1,000 persons broke into applause.

"But it will not be a cruel rebellion," the mayor said, "and when it has been concluded, there will be a new day, a new liberty and a new prosperity."

Combining two major subjects—disarmament and beer—the mayor drew a picture of people emerging into a new day. His plea for peace was backed with a warning for armament and his discussion of Atlanta's new legalization of beer was terse:

"We did not piddle around."

Lashing against "unctious hypocrites," Mayor Key said people of Atlanta had found a new happiness in beer—"not a happiness because of beer, but because of liberty."

It was a personal indictment of "powers that control" that the teacher of the city's largest Bible class delivered. Vehement and positive in opinion, he unleashed a barrage of criticism for "those who have stood in the broad highway of progress."

"Unctious Hypocrites" Attacked.

His remedy for economic recovery was expressed emphatically: "Overthrow those unctious hypocrites who have held us with a whip in a line of insincerity."

"It is the spirit of the law which we should observe, and not the letter," he said, quoting St. Paul, and he read a Bible verse to carry his point.

It was in the beginning that the mayor brought out his argument about armament. He issued a plea for peace and concluded that phase of discussion by saying the only sure cure for peace was in being prepared. His plea was accentuated by the presence of the drum and bugle corps of Atlanta Post No. 1, American Legion, which organization rendered martial numbers preceding and following the lecture.

In a high point of his lecture the mayor said Atlanta "had not been made happy by the mere presence of legalized beer, but we were happier Saturday than we've been since Armistice Day, because we felt a new spirit of freedom—an awakening of the new order. We don't care much about beer, but we do care for freedom."

Explaining the law, the mayor said that if we enforce all laws we would find a strange tangle of affairs.

"Years ago," he said, "the public gave tacit consent to winking at the sale of near beer—the sale of which is a genuine violation of the law. Shall we depart from common sense and fight this new drink which is not as vicious as the 'near variety?'"

Amplifying his statement, the mayor said near beer was more vicious than 3.2 because it carried potentialities of "needling and tampering" which the new brew does not possess.

Paying high tribute to leadership, Mr. Key lauded President Roosevelt for his "courage and quickness of action."

"I firmly believe," he said, "that we are emerging under his leadership into a new place in the sun—a secure place of prosperity and peace. He has said that we shall have freedom and I think we shall possess that inalienable right."

The largest attendance in several months—a crowd estimated at at least 1,100 persons heard the talk.

Concluding, the mayor said the "bone dry law of Georgia is nothing more than a bone-headed law."

"It is one thing to break the law and another thing to pass an ordinance to break it, Dr. W. A. Shelton,

SOVIET MAKES BID FOR RECOGNITION

Semi-Official Moscow Paper Links Normal Relations and Trade.

MOSCOW, May 21.—(AP)—A definite bid for the establishment of normal relations between soviet Russia and the United States was sounded editorially today in the publication, For Industrialization, the organ of the commissariat of heavy industry.

The editorial at the same time laid down the principle that formal diplomatic recognition is the price that the United States must pay before it can hope for any improvement in economic intercourse between the two countries.

Deliberately holding out bait for such a catch by hinting broadly of profitable business to be enjoyed by America once a normal relationship is established, the article declares that "the time has come when the question of the relations toward the soviet union has become the acid test of the wisdom of American political and business circles."

Referring to speculations abroad as to whether President Roosevelt's direct message to President Kalinin constituted recognition, the article says:

"We are not interested in such casuistry. We are for normal diplomatic relations with the United States as well as with other countries, but such relations do not belong to the category of philanthropic or abstract humanitarian ideas. They are based fundamentally on economy.

"Losses must occur when there is an absence of a firm legal base for mutual trade.

"President Hoover's policy was trade without recognition, the results of which are obvious. In 1932 the American exports to Russia were only $15,000,000, or $100,000,000 less than in 1930. . . ."

JAPAN CONTINUES PEIPING ADVANCE

Drive Subsides on Two Fronts But Persists on Third.

PEIPING, May 21.—(AP)—Sino-Japanese hostilities in north China have subsided but the Japanese both north of Peiping and on the Lwan river front are slowly advancing toward Peiping and Tientsin, according to Chinese foreign office advices.

North of Peiping the Japanese are reported to have occupied Miyun, which the Chinese voluntarily evacuated. As a result of the Japanese advance on Peiping, Chinese refugees are flocking into Peiping.

On the Lwan river front the Japanese and Manchukuo forces are reported to be within 50 miles of Tientsin but are not attempting to continue their forward push.

Northwest of Peiping the Chinese claim that Japanese and Manchukuoans from southwest Jehol have entered Chahar and are headed for Kalgan.

The Japanese legation here indicated today that the Japanese authorities have taken a grave view of the incident yesterday when a Chinese youth struck a Japanese sentry, at the entrance of the Japanese barracks abutting the legation, with a sword.

Japanese authorities say they consider the incident renders impossible any Sino-Japanese conversations for peace in north China.

A note concerning the incident has been sent to General Hoying Ching, the national government's war minister, by the Japanese. Contents of the note were not divulged.

INTEREST IS HIGH AS CAPITAL WAITS MORGAN HEARING

Government's Elaborate Preparations Lend Support to Rumors of Startling Revelations.

WASHINGTON, May 21.—(AP)—The national capital, scene of many an investigation, began to show signs of excitement today over the approaching senate inquiry into the great banking house of J. P. Morgan & Company, as those in charge announced everything was set for the opening of questioning Tuesday.

The capital has had many sensational senate investigations, but this one, involving the nation's most famous banking house, headed by a man who has been seen but little by the general public is expected generally to be a little different.

Word has come out of senatorial quarters that more elaborate preparations have been made for this inquiry than for any since the historic Teapot Dome investigation almost a decade ago.

Chairman Fletcher, of the senate banking committee, and Ferdinand Pecora, committee council, announced today they were ready, and that the hearings would open day after tomorrow as scheduled.

Pecora, who gained national fame for his conduct of the National City bank investigation last session, said the first witness would be J. P. Morgan, head of the banking house, and almost a legendary figure to the average American.

Back of Morgan, a dozen of the most active and best known members of the firm will be waiting under subpoena to testify.

The capital's interest in the investigation was whetted by the fact that this will be the first time the head of the House of Morgan has been called in a senate investigation since the elder Morgan testified in the Pujo "money trust" inquiry a generation ago.

It appeared probable today that details of the Morgan operations would be laid bare for the first time. Little is known by the public of the activities of this international banking house, which is a private instituton, and does not have to publish even its capital setup.

Pecora arrived in Washington last night to make final arrangements for the investigation and will confer tomorrow with Fletcher.

He and a staff of nearly half a hundred attorneys, accountants and investigators have been working over the Morgan books in New York for weeks.

The Morgan inquiry will be the first investigation involving the operations of Wall Street conducted under democratic management as the republicans were in power throughout the previous investigations.

While the Morgan hearings are in progress, Pecora's staff will stay in New York preparing for the next two inquiries, into Kuhn, Loeb & Company, and Dillon, Read & Company, both big private banking houses.

They are scheduled to come before the committee early in June, with two weeks allowed for completion of the Morgan case.

McBride Scores Plan For Revenue by Repeal

WASHINGTON, May 21.—(UP) Repeal of the 18th amendment in the hope that liquor revenue would reduce taxation would be the "most colossal loan shark transaction in American history," F. Scott McBride, general superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League said tonight.

In one of the few statements issued since legalization of 3.2 per cent beer and liberalization of whisky and wine prescriptions, the dry head accused the liquor traffic of taking advantage of the nation's economic distress to exploit the drink traffic.

It was the reply of prohibitionists to statements made by Budget Director Lewis W. Douglas and others before the house ways and means committee that new taxes to be imposed to finance the cost of the projected $3,300,000,000 public works program could be removed after repeal of the dry act.

$1,500,000 To Be Asked To Fight Anti-Semitism

WASHINGTON, May 21.—(UP) The American Jewish congress in emergency session here today approved creation of a $1,500,000 fund to combat anti-Semitism in Germany and the rest of the world.

First efforts will be directed to combat Hitlerism in Germany which was described in a resolution adopted by the congress as "a war of extermination against the Jew."

A member and a non-member of the Jewish faith will administer the fund which is to be formed by public contributions.

PACT WON'T ALTER U. S. PLAN TO BARE ARMS AIMS TODAY

Hull Cheered by Four-Power Peace Agreement But Davis Will Continue as Planned.

WASHINGTON, May 21.—(UP) Secretary of State Hull tonight was represented as feeling that the success of the European four-power peace plan was an important step toward disarmament and the organization of world peace.

The secretary received United Press reports of the Rome agreement with keen satisfaction, according to his advisors, and felt that it was a momentous achievement.

The developments in Rome, officials said, will not change the plan of Ambassador Norman H. Davis to outline America's position toward disarmament and security before the disarmament conference tomorrow. On the contrary, it was said that the conclusion of the pact would clarify the atmosphere for Davis' pronouncement.

American officials were anxious to know the terms of the Mussolini pact as finally agreed upon in Rome. The state department tonight had received no diplomatic report on it. It was anticipated that publication of the pact would show that it had been modified from its original form, which provided for considering changes in the map of Europe, the "Little Entente" and France seriously opposed this section.

But any agreement to organize European security, officials felt, will stimulate disarmament and the economic reconstruction to be attempted at London next month.

President Roosevelt this week enters the final stage of preparation for the world economic conference, an unprecedented effort to salvage jobs and bread from economic chaos.

The last two of the eleven countries invited to send representatives to talk with Mr. Roosevelt about problems of the conference will begin conversations this week.

Viscount Kikujiro Ishii, of Japan, is due here Tuesday. Pedro Torres, of Chile, will arrive later in the week. Meanwhile, Secretary of State Hull will complete economic talks with the regular envoys of the smaller countries which were not invited to send special representatives here.

Summing up results of Mr. Roosevelt's talks during the last month with official visitors from nine nations, including the major European powers, American officials see these gains:

1. An agreement "in principle" that monies must be stabilized and trade barriers reduced.

2. A clearer understanding of the problems to arise at London and of the positions to be taken there by various countries.

3. A new stimulus in disarmament and the organization of security, regarded as essential preludes to economic recovery.

Beer Runner Arrested On Income Tax Charge

NEW YORK, May 21.—United States Attorney George Z. Medalie was notified today of the arrest at White Lake of "Waxey" Gordon, alleged New Jersey beer runner under indictment on charges of evading income taxes. Two men said to be his bodyguard also were held.

Medalie left at once for Hawthorne, N. Y., where the three were being taken to state police headquarters.

Gordon, who has been missing since the slaying of two of his reputed lieutenants in Elizabeth, N. J., was indicted by the federal grand jury April 27 with Louis Cohen and Samuel Gurock, on four charges of conspiracy to defraud the government.

He was alleged to have evaded a tax of $347,565 in 1930 and of $35,408 in 1931.

Federal agents and state police made the arrests at Mansion Cottage, White Lake.

ROOSEVELT'S LEAD VIEWED AS FACTOR IN BLOW AT WAR

Pact Soon To Be Initialed at Geneva by Representatives of Four Nations With Formal Approval Later.

HOPE FOR SUCCESS AT LONDON BETTER

Mussolini Believes Treaty May Be Pathway to Lasting World Harmony and Reconstruction.

By the Associated Press.

Mussolini's four-power pact, aiming to guarantee peace in Europe for at least 10 years, has been informally accepted by France, England, Germany and Italy.

Two important provisions which raised a chorus of protests to the original pact two months ago by France and her eastern allies, Poland, Czecho-Slovakia, Jugo-Slavia and Rumania, have been so altered as to be practically eliminated, Rome reports disclosed.

Instead of indorsing revision of the post-war treaties, the pact merely states this as a possibility through machinery of the League of Nations, as it always has been.

Instead of providing a pledge of gradual arms "equality" for Germany, Austria, Hungary and Bulgaria, it mentions the disarmament question only generally, leaving the MacDonald disarmament plan to take care of this matter.

The revised pact now makes clear that the four chief nations, in undertaking measures to prevent any armed clash, will not impose their decisions on the smaller nations.

Word of the informal agreement was received with greatest satisfaction in Berlin. It was hailed as based on mutual equality for the participating nations.

Informal acceptance of the revised pact was viewed in Paris as the first step in a conciliatory movement bringing France in line with latest peace efforts. At the same time it was learned France has determined to accept in principle the MacDonald disarmament plan.

Geneva Is All Ears.

Officials in Washington greeted the Mussolini pact agreement as brightening the outlook for the London economic conference and the Geneva disarmament conference.

The news created an immense interest in Geneva and was expected to boost the disarmament negotiations there. Norman H. Davis, American representative, was to tell the conference today how far the United States will go in contributing towards international security.

Formal signing of the Mussolini pact was expected to take place in a few days. Its final form required concessions by two opposing sets of nations on the continent, the revisionists—Italy and the defeated powers in the World War—and the nations which gained territory or were created as a result of the war.

PROPOSAL OF MUSSOLINI WINS EUROPE'S APPROVAL

ROME, May 21.—(AP)—Mussolini's four-power pact, designed to give Europe a minimum of 10 years' peace, was informally agreed upon today by France, England, Germany and Italy.

Initialing of the pact may be done tomorrow at Geneva by Sir John Simon, British foreign secretary; Foreign Minister Paul-Boncour, of France; Rudolph Nadolny, German delegate, and Baron Aloisi, representative of the Italian government.

The formal signing of the agreement would take place later at Rome.

The British ambassador, Sir Ronald Graham, and the French ambassador, Henry de Jouvenel, after long audiences with the duce today telegraphed the final text of the pact to their governments.

Captain Hermann Goering, Chancellor Hitler's right-hand man, approved the text before he departed at noon today by airplane for Berlin.

The honor of making the formal an-

Hollywood Revives Old Party Spirit But $10,000 Kind Still Is Missing

HOLLYWOOD, May 21.—(AP)—The old Hollywood spirit is peering around the corner. The film colony is partying again.

In remembered days, Cecil B. De Mille gave parties at Paradise Randho, with guests drawing numbers for favors. The favors, guests disclosed, were sometimes platinum wrist watches, fur neckpieces, fine perfumes and even diamond rings.

This director's parties usually were confined to a small and exclusive group, or to his co-workers. Other executives occasionally duplicated them or gave them on a larger scale, some reputed to have cost thousands of dollars, with $10,000 a possible top.

Such affairs may not be seen again, although the tradition of lavishness, in the instance of Marion Davies and one or two others, has been carried up to recent days.

The low mark in entertainment was reached during the 50 per cent salary cut a month ago, but with things looking up those who ought to know say Hollywood may spend $100,000 this year for parties. This compared to $250,000 in the salary hey-day.

The big splashes, the ones which take in most of the film colony, are the Mayfair affairs. Here the film folk used to spend upwards of $35,000 a year just dining and dancing. Nine Mayfair parties were given during the happy 1926-27 era.

Five hundred dollars used to be considered a fair private party figure, although many reached the $1,000 mark, some even $2,000 and $3,000, but these all were day or week-end affairs and counted the "overhead" of servants, spoiled rugs, damaged pianos and (accidentally) broken glassware and crockery.

Nice little carefully planned dinners in the old days would easily run $100 or so, but the figure can be halved now. A few even have had the temerity to give "Dutch" lunch parties.

Studios are beginning to entertain again, private parties are becoming brighter and more numerous.

Maybe movieland soon will be drawing lucky numbers for favors again.

JEWISH HOSPITAL SECRETARY IN CITY TO SOLICIT FUNDS

Miss Rae Peyser, field secretary of the National Jewish Hospital for Consumptives, arrived in Atlanta Sunday to seek funds for the institution, which is located in Denver, Col. Local directors for the hospital are Julian V. Boehm, Hyman Jacobs and Ezra Touriel.

Miss Peyser said that the motto of the hospital is: "None may enter who can pay; none can pay who enter." The institution is open to the tubercular poor of the nation regardless of religious belief, and its children's service is the only one of the kind in the country, she said. Several patients from Atlanta have been discharged from the hospital in the last several years, and at present two Atlantans are receiving treatment there.

Miss Peyser is stopping at the Henry Grady hotel. "Because of distressed conditions the hospital is in urgent need of funds and the people of Atlanta are being asked to do their utmost to help the institution," she said.

ECONOMY VOTE SEEN THIS WEEK

Sweeping Reorganization May Go Into Effect By June 1.

WASHINGTON, May 21.—(AP)—On the awning-covered decks of the yacht Sequoia, President Roosevelt and his guardian of federal expenditures—Lewis W. Douglas, director of the budget—today drafted into near final form a wide governmental reorganization program through which they expect to produce savings of more than $300,000,000 during the next fiscal year.

The encompassing proposal is viewed by them as the final major step contemplated toward meeting President Roosevelt's campaign pledges of chopping 25 per cent from government expenditures and bringing the budget into balance by spending at least one billion dollars less than appropriated for the current fiscal year.

The chief executive is expected to send the completed reorganization plan to congress within the week where approval is expected. More sweeping in character than the program proposed by President Hoover last year and rejected by congress, the democratic plan is considered by leaders on Capitol Hill to have more chance of adoption because of the broad provisions of the economy bill.

Whereas one branch of congress could reject the Hoover set-up—and the house did—disapproval of the Roosevelt plan would require a two-thirds vote of each branch and with the heavy democratic majorities this is generally accepted as unlikely.

Not only is mennacing opposition considered improbable, but the administration is reliably reported to be planning to ask immediate approval so that the reduction in expenditures can become effective June 1 instead of resting before congress for the 60-day period of waiting prescribed in the economy bill.

80,000 ARE ENROLLED IN U. S. FOR FORESTS

WASHINGTON, May 21.—(AP)—With the enrollment of forestry workers reported to be proceeding ahead of schedule, conservation officials today saw good prospects for meeting the goal ordered by President Roosevelt of 275,000 men placed in work camps by July 1.

To the executive's order was attributed the increase enrollment which had brought the total to approximately 80,000.

4 Preacher-Sons Aid Miami Minister As He Gives Annual Baptist Sermon

WASHINGTON, May 21.—(AP)—Four preacher-sons today participated in the stirring services in which their gray-haired, gray-mustached father—Dr. J. L. White, of Miami, Fla.—preached the annual sermon of the Southern Baptist convention.

A crowd that filled a flag-decorated Washington auditorium to its topmost tier, listened to, and looked upon, the remarkable White family.

Dr. Lee McBride White, of Birmingham, Ala., the eldest son, and the Rev. J. L. White Jr., of Fork Union, Va., led in prayers. Dr. Russell H. White, of Louisville, Ky., read the scripture lesson. The Rev. Charles M. White, of Hastings, Fla., conducted the closing prayer, and pronounced the benediction.

"This is the first time since the historic Jones family, father and four sons, were preaching in the Baptist churches in the south that any such family group has ever been presented to a convention of our church," said Dr. M. E. Dodd, newly-elected president of the convention.

The Rev. J. William Jones, famed as a Confederate veteran, reared four sons who followed him into ministerial careers.

Dr. Dodd told the convention that its greatest task lay ahead—"to positionize itself on social and moral questions."

Declaring he had been one of those who believed it would have been better not to hold a convention this year because of the expense, Dr. Dodd said if there was any inescapable reason for meeting, the one outstanding thing, outside the work of the church, was the need for taking a stand on moral issues.

He announced tomorrow night had been set aside for the report of the important social service committee, expected to precipitate convention action on the questions of the legalization of beer, and the repeal of the eighteenth amendment.

Dr. A. J. Barton, of Wilmington, N. C., is chairman. He is also an official in the Anti-Saloon League, as is Dr. E. H. Cherrington, who will appear on the program.

Four Men Killed By Poisonous Fumes

NEWARK, N. J., May 21.—(AP)—Overcome by poisonous fumes, five men died today in an open sludge drainage vat at the Hess and Drucker tannery. Four of the victims were employes of the tannery, the fifth was a bystander who perished trying to rescue them.

The dead: Paul Bosak, 25; Stephen Bosak, 21, his brother; Stephen Remios, 28; John Pasnick, 33; Leonard Nedelak, 28.

The four employes of the tannery, working on a scaffold, were engaged in cleaning the vat, when Stephen Bosak, who was hired only a week ago, plunged into the vat. Witnesses said he was partially overcome by the fumes when he slipped on the wet planking and fell.

Bosak's fall, which brought his brother and the two other workers to his aid, is believed to have led to the first four deaths. The offorts of the would-be rescurers brought them into too great proximity to the poisonous fumes. One of them succumbed to the gases and fell into the sludge.

Insurance Executive Praises Traffic-Education Campaign

Herman J. Haas Says Liability Rates Have Increased 35 Per Cent Here in 10 Years.

Pointing out that rates on public liability insurance for automobiles have increased 35 per cent in Atlanta during the last decade, Herman J. Haas, prominent insurance executive here, Sunday commended the traffic-education campaign being launched today by the Atlanta Traffic and Safety League and the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

ATLANTA'S TRAFFIC ACCIDENT RECORD.

	Acc.	Injuries	Deaths
Sunday (to 4 p. m.)	3	3	0
May to date	139	76	3
1933 to date	1011	476	28
1932 same period	936	463	23

Compiled by Atlanta Traffic and Safety League and Junior Chamber of Commerce.

"If you had a light car back in 1924," said Mr. Haas, "you paid only $22 a year to protect yourself against injuries caused to another, to the extent of $5,000 for one injury, and $10,000 for one accident. Today the rate on that same insurance in Atlanta is $33. A heavy car used to cost $31 for the aforementioned protection; now the rate is $38.

"Rates for automobile insurance can reflect only the record of insured automobile owners and whenever that record indicates an increase either in the average number of claims, or in the average cost per claim, the companies have no choice but to adjust the rates accordingly. In doing so they must take into consideration the experience sustained during the more recent years and the conditions affecting the operation of automobiles and the settlement of claims that existed during those years for the purpose of determining a schedule of rates that will prove both reasonable and adequate. Rates are never adjusted to recoup past underwriting losses; increases are made only to prevent future ones.

"There is probably no line of insurance the rates for which follow more closely the indications of the experience sustained year after year. The underwriters and rating experts in the home offices and in the bureaus may be some distance away from the territory for which they are making the rates, but they can follow, through their statistical records, changes in conditions affecting the operation of automobiles in any territory as rapidly as they occur.

"We have been impressed year after year with the steady increase in the number of persons killed or injured in automobile accidents. We are told that during the last 18 months more people were killed as a result of automobile accidents in this country than the machine guns and the cannon and the deadly poison gas were able to kill of the American expeditionary forces during the 18 months that we were in the World War. We cannot consider this record and these facts without realizing that the companies must be entitled to adequate rates if they are to continue to provide automobile public liability or property damage insurance. It is our responsibility to our companies and to ourselves to realize these facts and to be convinced of their effect upon the automobile rates situation in order that we may convince the 'doubting Thomases' with which this great business of casualty insurance seems to abound.

"There is another responsibility that falls on us all and that is the responsibility of co-operating with every movement in our localities that is designed to reduce the number of or the seriousness of automobile accidents. Our companies have realized their responsibility and individually or collectively through such agencies as the National Bureau of Casualty and Surety Underwriters or the National Safety Council are co-operating with motor vehicle commissioners, state police and local authorities throughout the entire country in the promotion of plant and programs designed to reduce the number of motor vehicle accidents. The companies individually, as well as collectively, are doing everything within their power to prevent fraudulent or illegitimate claims for damages, or to educate the public who serve on juries in negligence cases against the growing practice of returning excessive verdicts. We must co-operate with the companies in this work for that is the only way that we will be able to keep the rates for automobile insurance down.

"Licensing of automobile drivers should be made statewide. Such legislation could not help but prove beneficial. And there is no doubt but that the educational program that the Atlanta Traffic and Safety League and the Junior Chamber of Commerce are undertaking will work wonders for traffic conditions here in Atlanta. It is a movement deserving of the support of all."

Atlantans will be given an opportunity today and the balance of this week to become active members of the Atlanta Traffic and Safety league. The requirements for membership are simply an earnest desire to improve Atlanta's observance of traffic regulations and a willingness to contribute the sum of $1 to enable the program to be carried on for the balance of the year. Members will be given "pledged for safety" emblems to display on their cars, the organization's official "pledge button," and certain valuable privileges that are extended only to members of the league.

Arthur Lynch, of Columbus, also spoke. Members discussed the state convention, which is to be held June 27 and 28 in Valdosta.

Exposition Opening Today To Show State's Farm, Industrial Products

Special emphasis will be placed on points of interest to tourists in the Forward Georgia Exposition to open at 9 o'clock this morning on the ground floor of the Volunteer building, corner of Forsyth and Luckie streets.

Ted Toddy, public relations director for Columbia pictures, who is putting on the exposition in co-operation with Roy LeCraw, president of Forward Georgia, Inc., announced that, in addition to exhibits featuring tourist attractions, various manufacturers will show how their products are produced. The agricultural side of Georgia life also will be represented, efforts being made to present a graphic cross-section picture of present-day Georgia life.

During the week there will be a number of special features. One of these, according to Mr. Toddy, will be the modeling in clay, as spectators look on, of a heroic allegorical figure by a well-known sculptor.

The exposition will not be confined to Atlanta firms. Chambers of commerce and business firms all over the state have been invited to have exhibits in an attempt to make the exposition truly representative of Georgia. The exposition will be open daily from 9 o'clock in the morning until 9 p. m.

THE OAKES FAMILY, 9 W. MELROSE ST., CHEVY CHASE, MD.

THERE'S going to be fun in the Oakes family . . . and some neat family questions to be settled. All because there are two cars now . . . and one is a De Luxe Plymouth.

Margaret is learning to drive. She'll want the car that's easiest to handle. The heavy car makes Mrs. Oakes nervous in traffic. So she likes Plymouth.

But Mr. Oakes drives to his office in Washington. And Plymouth gets him around faster and easier.

Question: Who gets the Plymouth?

It doesn't take long to convert a "heavy car" owner to De Luxe Plymouth. It's a big car . . . 112-inch wheelbase and the biggest low-priced six now built in this country. There's Free Wheeling, for one thrill. Floating Power for smoothness. Transmission is all silent and automatic clutch is only $8 extra. Duplate Safety Glass windshield in all models.

Springs never need oiling . . . valves go 30,000 miles without grinding. In all, the De Luxe Plymouth has the edge over competing sixes in 30 places.

And dead weight has been scientifically removed. Bills stay low always.

See the De Luxe Plymouth... today! You may learn how to save money.

ATLANTA, GA., MAY 22, 1933.

THE REPUBLICAN FUTURE.

The Chicago Tribune feels that the statements in Washington some two weeks ago of Ogden Mills are "more than would be derived from Mr. Mills as an individual citizen," and suspects that they herald an effort of the leaders of the Hoover regime to continue to dominate the republican party.

Such a program is not at all to the liking of this outstanding and influential republican newspaper, which, in commenting on the republican hope that it will be possible to recapture in next year's congressional elections some of the seats lost in the 1932 landslide, takes the position that—

It does not follow from these hopes that the republican comeback should be undertaken under the direction of the men who headed the party in its defeat of last November. They may think that in spite of the defeat they remain at the head of the party. There is a mistake in that. It will be either the mistake of the men so assuming a prerogative of command or it will be a mistake of the party which accepts such control. The defeat of November was the defeat of Mr. Hoover and his advisers as much as it was the defeat of the republican party.

Mr. Hoover's approach to the questions confronting him as president and the country in its domestic and international affairs started wrong and was bound to have wrong objectives. He not only misinterpreted the ideas of a majority of the American people, but no one could have been more stubborn in maintaining his position.

When the republican party seeks to return to favor in republican states it must do so with other men in charge of its destiny than the men who were consulted by Mr. Hoover. It would be extreme foolishness to imagine that defeat left the men of the Hoover administration at the head of the party.

The position of the Tribune is significant in emphasizing that the general demand for new leadership following the 1932 catastrophe was not merely a temporary reaction to crushing defeat, but was a deep-rooted conviction on the part of the republicans that the weakness of their leaders was responsible for the wrecking of the party on the political rocks.

Such a reading of old leaders out of the pictures would, however, still leave the party faced with a difficult impasse, for there are no new leaders to whom the rank and file can turn. Certainly there are none in congress who give promise of being able to knit the party together and no state leaders, even in the Tribune's own state of Illinois, have given evidence that from them may come the Moses to lead the republicans out of the wilderness of defeat.

One of the greatest contributing causes to the rout of last November was that the republican party had been dying of dry rot at the top, while the democratic party was developing a new, young and virile leadership.

Such a situation is not one to be changed in a single administrative term of the national government, and the republicans, if they are wise, should not try to rebuild for the immediate future, but will launch a house-cleaning out of which will come new policies and new leaders with which to seek again the favor of the voters of the country.

RESORT CLIMES IN THE HOME.

The relief now sought in high altitudes by sufferers from hay fever and asthma has been made possible in the home and the office as the result of experiments at Johns Hopkins hospital, Baltimore, according to an article in the current issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association.

These experiments, carried on by Dr. Leslie N. Gay, authority on allergy and member of the medical staff of the hospital, and the Frigidaire division of General Motors, were directed at obtaining, as nearly as possible, the same atmospheric conditions in an ordinary room as exist in the refreshingly cool and pollen-free air of such sections as the Rocky mountain and Great Lakes regions.

A room in the hospital was equipped with beds, chairs and other usual furniture, and a cabinet housing a cooling coil, fans and a drip pan hooked up with an electrically driven compressor. Then, with the stage set, a group of sneezing, wheezing, bleary-eyed victims were called in and observation begun.

Hay fever victims showed striking improvement within from 10 to 15 minutes, and within two hours all evidences of their affliction had disappeared. Patients suffering from asthmatic complications did not respond so quickly, but they, too, became practically normal after 36 hours.

While the new treatment is not yet considered in the light of a cure, it has been conclusively proven that it affords almost immediate relief for most victims while they are in an air-conditioned room, and that while hay fever effects return when the patient is again exposed to the outside air, they are not as annoying as before.

THE TYPISTS CELEBRATE.

Incident to the annual celebration this year by more than 250,000 Y. W. C. A. girls in this country of the progress of women as active citizens, there will be commemorated the 60th anniversary of the entrance of women into the modern business world following the invention of the typewriter.

In March, 1873, Christopher Latham Sholes perfected the first typewriter, and when the first machines were turned out from the factory of the Remington Arms Company a new era had begun in the lives and outlook of women and time-honored customs of the business world were doomed to extinction.

The coming of the typewriter was, more than anything else, the entering wedge for the woman in the business world. While there were literally no women engaged in office work 60 years ago, the last census lists more than 10,000,000 such workers in the United States.

The typewriter of today is a far cry from the crude machine perfected in 1873. Now there are approximately 3,000 special and 3,000 standard keyboards for typewriters, including the Japanese which writes in perpendicular columns, and the Arabic, which is spaced from right to left. Altogether, typewriting machines are manufactured with 208 different types and with keyboards in 221 languages.

The development of great industries, such as the manufacture of the typewriter is now, generally sees the disappearance of the company which manufactured the first instrument. It is different with the typewriter, for the factory which turned out the first machine took its eight-millionth machine off the assembling line in March.

The typewriter of 1873 was a far cry from the compact, silent and efficient machine of today. The forbear of them all looked more like a sewing machine, resting on a stand and having a foot treadle which operated the carriage return. There was no shift key and only capital letters were used.

The entrance of women into the business world came when the Remington company found it necessary to send out operators with each machine sold. For these operators they chose young women—and the days when men clerks and scriveners had no opposition from the other sex were gone forever.

In view of the countless millions of women who have during the last half century used the typewriter as a stepping stone to financial independence, it is not out of keeping that in celebrating the progress of woman in the business world the Y. W. C. A. girls should pause to pay tribute to the machine without which no office is complete today.

The average citizen, who divides all income with his wife, will tell you that the splitting of atoms is no new discovery.

It isn't a mere coincidence that the sex most likely to play fair is the one most likely to get a sock if it doesn't.

"Designers Seek Proper Title for Theater Gown." Why not call it a first-nightie?

The country is behind, you, Mr. President, but don't let it get too far behind.

The measure of a man's greatness is the length of time people remember his blunders.

It seems like old times to be feeling that we should's blame the Germans for their leaders.

Dumb brutes are the ones whose troubles don't result from the stupidity of their race.

But why worry? You just imagined you were rich in 1929, and you still have your imagination.

THE WORLD'S WINDOW

BY PIERRE VAN PAASSEN

Is the Peace Spirit Lost?

Lack of conciliatory attitude among the European peoples, extension of press censorship and the influence of munition interests were held responble by Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University, for a decline of the spirit of peace in the world. He thought that the change in control of several influential European newspapers recently was an ominous sign. He doubtlessly referred to Le Temps, in Paris, which passed into the hands of the French armament trust and the Journal de Geneve, which ceases to be a champion of pence and conciliation, as well as to changes in Germany where the two great liberal papers, Berliner Tageblatt and Vossische Zeitung have been seized by the nazi nationalists.

Dr. Butler has indeed cause to worry, if he looks only at these important changes. On the other hand there is no question either that there is a strong current against war coming up from below. After all, this is immensely significant. The common people, the masses as they are called, are everywhere showing a determined opposition to war as the desperate solution of the economic crisis. It may be objected that the masses have no influence. But it is they and no others who would have to do the fighting if hell broke loose once more.

M. Painleve, former minister of war in France, sounded a grave warning not long ago when he referred to the last years of the war. There was a time, he said, when there was but one division between the front and Paris on which the government could place absolute reliance. The others were all more or less affected by mutiny and rebellion. They wanted peace at any price. This same sentiment of peace at any price is bound to reassert itself very much sooner in an eventual future conflict. The instruments of destruction will be so ghastly and the butchery so ruthless that men will not put up with it for long.

The governments know this. This knowledge is one of the greatest checks on the ambitions of those who would seek a way out of the present situation by engaging in war. War is a danger not only to the opposing country. It is a danger for the country that engages in it. Nothing will be gained by war in the end. War in Europe at the present time will quickly change into civil war and revolution.

Fighting Everywhere.

In Sevilla three months ago our afternoon promenade was interrupted by the thunderous beat of cavalry through the streets, fire-hose screaming and infantry on the trot. A moment later we were caught in the midst of a scrambling, yelling, clawing and battling humanity. Had not a good citizen opened his door and dragged us inside we would no doubt have become a victim of mob rule, as the saying goes. A week later in Barcelona the same thing happened. But that time we beat it before the battle came too close.

It is exceedingly awkward, namely, to explain at a police station what a stranger is doing in the midst of a riot. Bad enough it seems for native sons to riot. For a foreigner it is downright criminal. At least so the police argue. But ill luck seemed to pursue us. In Berlin a fellow was knocked down right next to us at a newspaper stand at the moment we made a purchase. We were required to attend court as a witness, and got a supreme lecture from the judge in the bargain, for not being able to say who struck the first blow.

Then came Munich with a fight so close that we had to seek a doctor after the melee. And now passing through the old town of Ghent we were startled by a running battle between students. Paris looks quiet after that tour. But even in Paris all sorts of posters are up on the boardings in which one group threatens the other to settle their hash shortly. Wotta life!

DAY BY DAY

In Georgia's History

Two hundred years ago today General James Oglethorpe entered into a treaty with the chiefs of the Lower Creek Indians, Uchees and Yamacraws.

On May 24, 1838, what great movement was made in regard to the Indians of the state of Georgia?

For the two best 10-word original answers to the foregoing question, Loew's Grand theater, co-operating with The Constitution, will award two pair of guest tickets to see "Reunion in Vienna." Answers must be mailed to the Day-by-Day Editor, Constitution, and must bear a postmark not later than midnight tomorrow.

Health Talks

BY DR. WILLIAM BRADY

A THIRTY-POUND HANDICAP.

Everybody needs a wee drop of iodin, in one form or another every day, every week or at least every month.

Doesn't matter which form you choose, so long as you get your iodin.

A great many individuals do not get sufficient iodin for health, and suffer physically, mentally and in morale or spirit from the deficiency.

Children in their early teens develop simple goitre if they do not get enough iodin. Older children are likely to mope, whether they show noticeable or palpable enlargement of the thyroid gland or swelling just above the breast bone or not. Young adults whose iodin ration is inadequate manifest disturbances of health too various to mention in a brief article. Adults of mature age go stale, become prematurely gray, lose pep and ambition when they get insufficient iodin.

Here's a testimonial from a reader. It may have some significance, and it may not. You never can tell about a testimonial. Who knows whether it is made of consistence or just coincidence? But anyway, I believe it will do no harm and so I print it with the blessing of Hippokrates:

"Dear Doctor Brady:

"I think that I owe you a letter of gratitude.

"Last November I wrote you about the iodin ration for stiff joints.

"I started on it December 1, a drop a week. After I had taken it only three months, I noticed a great improvement. My limbs were not so stiff and my take-off became much faster, if I may use that expression.

"I can leave a moving picture show without crawling or hanging onto someone. I can get up and walk out. That is something I had been unable to do for the past three years.

"Now if you can help me with one more trouble. I am 56 years old, 63 inches tall and weigh 166 pounds. I am very short-winded, if I walk just a little fast to make a bus or a train. I can't get my breath for at least five minutes. There have been times when I ran that I could not talk. I then feel my heart as if it were pumping in my throat. Climbing stairs also causes this palpitation. . . . (Mrs. M. D.)"

Aside from her iodin deficiency the lady totes 30 pounds of slacker flesh.

A perfectly normal man or woman would get pretty short of breath if, when running up stairs or trying to catch a train he or she picked up 30 pounds of blubber and toted it along.

We are glad to mail instructions for taking an iodin ration to any correspondent who asks for it (no clipping will suffice) and incloses stamped envelope bearing the correct return address. The corrective protective regenerative diet should suit Mrs. M. D.'s requirements and others in like case. It is given in detail in the booklet, "Guide to Right Eating," copy of which will be mailed if you ask for it and inclose a dime and a stamped, addressed envelope.

His Fall Seems a Publicity Stunt If You Would Fall To Attract Attention

By Robert Quillen

One morning in the spring of the year a man walked a country road to enjoy the odor of apple blossoms and new-plowed earth. At the crest of a little hill he quit the road and began to climb a fence that enclosed a pasture.

He was seen by three watchers, a thief, a poet, and a buzzard that circles in the sky.

"He's planning to rob that farm house," said the thief.

"He is looking for wild flowers," said the poet.

And the buzzard, dropping a little lower, thought to itself: "He's after that dead sheep in the hollow."

It is our nature and practice to attribute to others the motives that would be ours if we were in their place. It isn't in human nature to credit others with a nobility of purpose of which we are incapable.

Consider the matter of personal publicity.

Those who earn their living by serving the public are often made conspicuous. Their activities make news. And when one of them does anything at all out of the ordinary, people who lack discernment sneer in chorus: "It's a publicity stunt. He's trying to attract attention."

It is true that vain people, in public service as in private life, delight in showing off. Their desire for publicity is evidenced by the unnatural things they do to gain it.

But if a man is made conspicuous by his job, it is stupid to assume that he plans or welcomes the publicity that is given to every thing he does.

Much depends on the nature of the act. If it is one that would be worthy of headlines, though done by some person unknown to fame, then it may be a bid for publicity. But if it is one that any obscure person might do without attracting unusual notice, it is clearly no effort to win public attention. The resulting publicity is not a result of the man's act, but of his job.

As a matter of fact, the average public servant hates publicity and longs for the privacy and freedom enjoyed by the obscure. He is stared at and pointed at until he feels naked. He is like a strange animal in the zoo and his life is one long third degree.

Coolidge yearned to travel, but his fear and hatred of being made conspicuous kept him in hiding among his old friends.

Garbo covets decent privacy, and her effort to obtain it is called a publicity stunt.

We are cruel to those who serve us. How would you like it if you couldn't for a single hour escape the prying eyes of strangers except by hiding?

HOLLYWOOD IN PERSON

BY MOLLIE MERRICK.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., May 21.—When mother was in her gay twenties you were nobody at all unless you had a few foulards in your wardrobe; it's true of the present-day mode.

The most chic thing you will do this summer is wear pretty tailored frocks of necktie silk sometimes topped with cotton and linen coats. They will be different from the foulards of mother's day in that they will be free of the lace and chiffon fronts and baby ribbon velvet run through them: They will be as tailored as you please—the more severe the better. And if you can wear a Franklin sailor perched atop your waves, so much the better for you.

Genevieve Tobin's brown foulard with cream dots and little squares of cream color, each one of which carries a tiny vermeille dot, is cut exactly like the gray flannel suits we wore earlier this spring. A cravat of cream-colored silk—very heavy and with a bias rib running through it—is fringed at the ends and the ends are allowed to peep out beneath the top button which alone is fastened, the rest of the little cutaway flinging free.

The sailor of brown straw which tops it is too silly and deliciously chic for words—it's inch-high crown has a swath of the foulard about it, and the blonde Tobin wears it at the most rakish angle imaginable. The ghillie shoes which she wears with it are of rough brown silk fabric.

You'll have to go back to nature for your colors if the designer of Elizabeth Allen's wardrobe for R.-K.-O.'s "The Public Be Sold" may be believed. The street ensemble is of dark maroon ostrich cloth which takes its color from a fallen maple leaf. A two-piece ensemble, it is smartly tailored and has a suede belt with wooden buckle. Brown kid pumps complete the outfit.

Another "nature" color worn by Elizabeth Allen is a light green wool dress with neck ruffle of white embroidered organdie. T-strap pumps are worn with this in a darker green suede.

A sheath of black velvet so tight that Doris Kenyon will have to be careful or else . . . is the design for her in the same picture. Of transparent velvet, it is heavily trimmed in the top part with silver lame and the heavy black Lyons velvet coat which goes with it has huge sleeves cartridge-pleated on to the low shoulder line.

If your hair is as red as Janet Gaynor's or as blonde as Constance Bennett's, you may try the black linen sports frock and be thankful that you have that type which dramatizes it to the full. If you're just another girl with garden variety brown hair and a skin that takes on a dark tan, the effect might be depressing. If you have raven black hair and a skin that stays like a gardenia all through the hot season, what smarter could you wear with it than one of the white waffle pique hats with a fluted brim? Like all extreme styles, the black linen sports frock has to be worn by a type or not at all.

Gray linen is having a fling at the moment in Hollywood. Carole Lombard tops her black linen sports frocks with a gray linen jacket, cut double-breasted—broadened in the shoulder line a la Schiaparelli and with two rows of gray pearl buttons. There is a very broad belt of supple patent leather fastened with a gray linen thong. If you're as slim as the Lombard this is the final note of chic.

Mae West goes in for the little veil, especially at night, when her white or black turbans are capped by tiny noseveils of white meso or white chenille dots—quite small—and giving that mothlike glow to the perfect complexion of the curvacious lady.

Profanity in Navy Is Banned in Order

NORFOLK, Va., May 21.—(AP) A ban on profanity and obscenity in the navy is contained in orders received by naval authorities here from Admiral R. H. Leigh, commander-in-chief of the United States fleet.

The sailor now found guilty of "cussing" will be subject to disciplinary action.

The order, naval officers said, applies to the enlisted personnel ashore or afloat.

"It is directed," the order said, "that all commanding officers take immediate steps to eradicate this undesirable habit of profane and obscene language heard and to take suitable disciplinary action in the case of each infraction reported."

SCHOOL FOR THE DEAF GRADUATES TWELVE

CAVE SPRING, Ga., May 21.—The closing exercises of the Georgia School of the Deaf took place Saturday at 3 o'clock. The entertainment, one of the most successful in the school's history, consisted of recitations, songs, dances and pantomimes.

Demonstrations of speech reading and vibration work were given by Miss Jessie Stevens and Miss Marion Harned. The pageant showing Georgia history during the time of Oglethorpe was especially interesting.

Fourteen certificates were given to those pupils completing the alloted course of 12 years.

The exhibits of work done in the different departments of the school were most creditable.

The school will not actually close its doors until Friday, May 26, but all exercises are over for the term.

FINANCING PLANS FOR JOB PROGRAM ASSUMING SHAPE

House and the capitol it is desired to have congress adjourn before the start of the London conference.

The house tomorrow will continue consideration of the Glass-Steagall bank reform bill, while the senate drives toward conclusion of the impeachment trial of Federal Judge Harold Louderback, of San Francisco, hoped for by Tuesday.

J. P. Morgan Jr., of New York, head of the big firm bearing his name, is to be questioned Tuesday before the senate banking committee, as was his father, J. P. Morgan Sr., in 1912.

Final action is to be taken this week on the Rayburn-Fletcher securities regulation bill, passed by both branches and agreed upon in conference yesterday. This important administration proposal will be acted upon first by the house. Adoption of the conference report by both house and senate is expected.

Although democratic leaders plan to bring the public works-industry control bill up for house action this week, the suggestion by President Roosevelt in letters to Vice President Garner and Speaker Rainey that his oil control measure be tacked onto it may result in some delay.

Chairman Doughton insisted the tax section of the industrial bill be decided upon Monday before the oil bill, introduced by Representative Marland, democrat, Oklahoma, and referred to the ways and means committee by Speaker Rainey, is considered.

Representative Watson, republican, Pennsylvania, a member of the ways and means committee, in a statement today, asserted that President Roosevelt left "the very crux of the measure, taxes, to congress, an acknowledgement on the part of the administration that a sales tax was not favored, although not altogether ignored."

"The sales tax for the United States is practical and adjustable," Watson said. "The public would not realize the imposition of such a tax, at the same time it would subscribe to the governmental expenses, thus equalizing the tax burden.

"The policy of the administration program of increasing the nation's financial burden $5,000,000,000 is carrying us to a period when the question of incapacity to pay may be very serious, then consideration of capital tax would be resorted to, which means repudiating the nation's obligations."

CONSOLIDATED ORDERS 10 PER CENT PAY HIKE

LYNCHBURG, Va., May 21.—(AP) Allen F. Johnson, vice president of Consolidated Textile Corporation, has ordered a 10 per cent increase in wages of all employes, effective the week beginning May 29.

About 750 employes of the Lynchburg mills will be affected and many more in the southern mills of the Consolidated. The concern's plants at Burlington, N. C.; Sheby, N. C., and LaFayette, Ga., have been operating on full schedule for many months, as has the Lynchburg branch, but until recently business conditions have not permitted a wage increase.

He's Hardly Old Enough for That

LABOR CHALLENGES HIGHER WAGE CLAIMS

Increases in Pay Merely Partial Restoration of Cuts, Green Says.

(Copyright, 1933, by United Press.)

WASHINGTON, May 21—(UP)—Organized labor warned the American public tonight not to be misled by announcements on "wage increases" by business and industrial leaders who still pay their workers "starvation salaries."

President William Green, of the American Federation of Labor, in an exclusive interview with the United Press, reviewed the progress made in salary readjustments since President Roosevelt's recent appeal to business leaders to raise wages.

The labor leader was gratified that the chief executive's plea had received quick response. He emphasized, however, that in some instances 10 per cent wage increases have been ordered but that these workers previously had been cut as much as 40 and 50 per cent.

Competing firms which had made less drastic pay roll cuts, he felt, are being placed in an unfavorable public position in not readjusting salaries upward. Officials of the United States department of labor echoed Green's sentiments. Such announcements, they said, were manifestly unfair.

North Carolina textile mills bore the brunt of Green's criticism.

"I use them as an example," he said. "Other concerns have been just as unfair."

In New England, Green pointed out, fabric mills pay their women workers from $10 to $12 a week. This wage, he said, is too low, and does not permit of decent living conditions.

"Now," the labor executive continued, "these North Carolina mills announce they have given their workers a 5 per cent pay increase. What happens?

"The newspapers carry the announcement on their front pages and rightly so, because it is the truth. But the fact is, these mills even with their 5 per cent increase still are paying their workers about $4 a week."

He then cited another example. A brokerage house recently announced a 10 per cent salary increase for all workers.

"It was not learned until later, however, that this firm previously had cut salaries more than 60 per cent. It must make a whole series of these 10 per cent increases before its workers will be receiving their normal salaries."

FLORIDA SOLONS FACE DICTATORIAL ISSUES

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., May 21.—(AP)—Florida's 1933 legislature will go into the last lap of its regular session tomorrow with plenty of unfinished tasks ahead and no achievement records yet broken.

Returning from a week-end recess which is expected to be the last of the session, legislators will come face to face with governor Dave Sholtz' request for virtual dictatorial powers to straighten out affairs of state government.

They also will be faced with his plea for immediate action on the major legislative problems which he called to their attention at the beginning of the session and which they have not solved. The chief executive's plea was backed by a statement that legislators must answer to the people if they fail to respond.

COTTON HEAD PREDICTS GAIN IN CONSUMPTION

NEW ORLEANS, May 21.—(UP) A "greatly increased" consumption of cotton if the business upturn continues, was predicted tonight by U. B. Blalock, Raleigh, N. C., president of the American Cotton Co-operative Association, who is here for a directors' meeting.

He declined to forecast definite higher prices, but expressed optimism over the cotton outlook. Because the crop is late, there is a possibility of acreage curtailment through measures which may still be taken, he said. President Roosevelt now has the power to raise commodity prices and has pledged himself to do it, and, he added, textile manufacturing is picking up.

IL DUCE'S PLAN FOR 10-YEAR PEACE WINS APPROVAL

nouncement of the agreement will fall to the duce as author of the plan. The announcement will probably take the form of a solemn statement to the world either immediately after the meeting of the fascist grand council Monday night or in the chamber of deputies later in the week.

Thus has a rapid series of events set in motion by President Roosevelt's initiative Tuesday brought Europe in less than a week into an understanding which according to Premier Mussolini may lead to world peace and reconstruction.

Today's agreement, in the view of Italian authorities, will clear the atmosphere for the world economic conference, allowing the nations to consider economic cures with their feet on solid ground politically for the first time in years.

It is felt in diplomatic circles here that the four-power agreement will greatly increase the chances in favor of the success of the London conference and may mark the beginning of a new era of European progress.

Long Negotiation.

Agreement on the Mussolini pact was reached after two months of negotiation, as it was March 21 when Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald left Rome after two days' conversations with the duce on the subject.

The latest stumbling block to agreement was a German objection to French amendments, but the Germans have now withdrawn these.

The pact as it now stands consists of five articles instead of the original six. It is somewhat longer, however, than the original form since the moot points, such as revision of treaties, needed ampler statement so as to produce no mistaken interpretation.

The present pact begins with a preamble stating its purpose as collaboration among the four great western European powers to maintain peace. It states that it is based on the Briand-Kellogg pact and the non-resort to force agreement signed at Geneva last December, and the covenant of the League of Nations.

The league covenant is not specifically mentioned in the original form of the pact.

The present pact makes it abundantly clear that the four-power agreement does not mean that the powers will impose a solution on any other nation. Prime Minister MacDonald stated this verbally when he was in Rome but developments abroad showed that some of the people did not believe it. The pact now states this point clearly and beyond question.

Revision Through League.

On the difficult point of revision of treaties the pact states definitely the possibility of accomplishing this but only through the machinery of the League of Nations under Article 19 of the covenant.

PARIS READY TO ACCEPT BRITISH ARMS PROPOSAL

PARIS, May 21.—(AP)—France was understood today to be ready to accept the MacDonald disarmament plan with some modification and to be making progress in negotiations for a revised Mussolini four-power pact.

Premier Daladier is said to have finally decided to seek peace with President Roosevelt and Premier MacDonald. The decision came at a hot special cabinet session yesterday after George Leygues, minister of marine, almost won the day for maintaining present armaments.

Before he received definite assurances from Chancellor Hitler through the German ambassador, M. Daladier insisted Friday that the present army was vitally necessary.

LONDON THINKS PACT WILL HAVE GOOD EFFECT

LONDON, May 21.—(UP)—Official circles were reticent tonight on the four-power pact approved at Rome, awaiting actual details to be announced.

The report of its acceptance was hailed, however, in semi-official quarters, particularly for its "moral effect," which was regarded here as badly needed. The inclusion of Hitlerite Germany, France and fascist Italy in one peace move was regarded as particularly significant.

It should facilitate the work of the arms conference at Geneva, it was felt, which so far has been made difficult by French suspicions of both Germany and Italy.

OIL BILL IN CONFLICT WITH CONTROL PLANS

Measure Applicable to One Industry Not in Accord With General Idea.

WASHINGTON, May 21.—(AP)—President Roosevelt's plan for a "partnership" between industry and the government, embodied in his legislative proposal for control of industry generally, today was viewed in some congressional quarters as having been abandoned in the bill submitted to congress for regulating the oil business.

Fundamentally the two measures have the same purpose—to control production, prices, hours of labor and wages—but the methods proposed are in sharp contrast.

Under the Wagner bill for the general control of industry the initiative would rest with the trade association representing an industry, while in the oil bill the government would initiate action.

In the end the powers conferred by the two bills are virtually the same, as the government could act under the Wagner bill if industry failed to do so.

Under the oil bill introduced in both branches by Senator Capper, republican, Kansas, and Representative Marland, democrat, Oklahoma, the secretary of interior would be authorized to survey needs and then fix a limit upon domestic production and importation of petroleum.

He then would allocate the domestic production between the states and even prorate quotas within the states where local authorities failed to act.

To prevent unfair competition, the secretary would be empowered to fix maximum and minimum prices for petroleum and its products, and to establish hours of labor and minimum wages of pay.

Prices fixed for petroleum would apply to intrastate, as well as interstate sales.

Any oil produced in excess of the market demand fixed by the secretary would be subject to an additional tax of 50 cents a barrel and would be barred from interstate commerce.

While the oil bill is primarily a partnership between the federal and state governments to control a single industry, the Wagner bill proposes a partnership between the government and all industries engaged in interstate commerce to control production generally.

Principal Provisions Of Mussolini's Pact

By the Associated Press.

A summary of the four-power European peace pact, agreed upon by representatives of France, Italy, Germany and Great Britain, follows:

The preamble states the purpose to be collaboration among the four powers to maintain peace. It states it is based on the Briand-Kellogg pact, the four-power "no force" agreement signed last December and the covenant of the League of Nations.

Its duration is to be 10 years.

It is made clear the four powers will not impose any solution on any smaller nations.

The revision of post-war treaties is stated to be a possibility, but only under Article XIX of the League covenant.

The signatories agree to abide by Article X of the covenant, respecting and maintaining against all external aggression the territorial integrity and independence of all League members.

Disarmament is mentioned only as a desirable necessity without reference to any specific proposals.

MACON, Ga., May 21.—(AP)—The Macon Telegraph quotes Swift and Company officials as stating that construction of a cheese factory to have an annual capacity of 500,000 pounds will begin here soon. The unit will be an addition to the present Swift plant here, it is stated.

Fair To Have Wren's Nest Model

A plaster model, three feet high, of Joel Chandler Harris' home, the Wren's Nest, which will be exhibited at the World's Fair at Chicago by Dr. Joseph Klein, noted Atlanta sculptor, is shown above. The model, said to be the only exhibit of its kind from Georgia to be shown at the Century of Progress exposition, was shipped Saturday afternoon to take its place in the Georgia display. Dr. Klein completed the reproduction in four days from a sketch he made. It is approximately four feet long and three feet deep.

Solo Effort to Circle Globe in 6 Days Is Planned by Post for Next Month

NEW YORK, May 21.—(UP)—Wiley Post, stocky little Oklahoman who circled the globe with Harold Gatty two years ago, announced today that he will take off about June 20 in an attempt to fly alone around the world in six days.

Post will use the same Lockheed Vega ship in which he established his spectacular record two years ago. It will be equipped, however, with an "automatic pilot" device which, as he puts it, "will give me a chance to see some of the country this time."

"I'm really going along as a passenger," he said, "since I won't have much to do with running the Winnie Mae. I'm going to take some fishing tackle along because they tell me some of those Siberian streams are full of swell fish."

Post will hop from Floyd Bennett field and intends to make Berlin his first stop. From Berlin he will head for Novo-Sibirsk, thence to Yakutsk, on to Fairbanks, Alaska, down to Edmonton and then back to New York.

He and Gatty circled the earth in 8 days 15 hours and 51 minutes. Because of improved flying equipment, Post is confident he will be back in New York six days after his departure. The Winnie Mae has been thoroughly reconditioned and the motor is capable of greater speed than two years ago.

"There's no backer, no manager and no partner in this flight," he said. "Aviation manufacturing companies made it possible for me to get the plane in shape. I had a little money of my own, and the folks back in Oklahoma City put up some cash."

BUSINESS ADVANCING ALONG SOUND LINES

NEW YORK, May 21.—Many individuals have asked the question during the past few weeks, whether or not the business improvement thus far is sound. A general survey shows conclusively that there is but one answer. Aside from governmental support through the many emergency measures, including the Wagner bill, many factors show that real improvement is being made in many lines of industry which, in turn, means increase in employment, higher wages and better buying power. We refer, for instance, to steel production, which is higher than a year ago largely because of the demand for automobiles, refrigerators, tin plate, stoves, washing machines, metal sinks and beer bottle cases. For the first time in two years electric power production has surpassed the level of the preceding year. Carloadings continue to increase, although they are still slightly below those of a year ago. Commodity prices show advances from the lows of about 50 per cent on cotton, 73 per cent on wheat, 66 per cent on oats, 89 per cent on corn.

Wage increases are becoming general in many industries, including our own. We feel justified in concluding that the business improvement is sound and will continue.

Cotton goods have been in strong demand during the past week at steadily advancing prices. In our own organization, sales for the week will total a very substantial yardage, in which all departments have participated. It is interesting to note, as we pointed out last week, that merchandise is being absorbed by many industries at current prices and already a large number of fabrics are difficult to obtain for nearby delivery. —Southeastern Cottons, Inc.

More Torrid Weather Forecast for Atlanta

By a preponderance of linen suits and straws—some new, many old—Atlanta has capitulated to summer weather and a thermometer reading of 90 Sunday is scheduled to be followed by another equally as high today. Sunday's range was 70 to 90 and the low today will be about 66. Skies will be quite fair.

PASTORS ATTACK LEGALIZED BEER

pastor of Grace Methodist church, told his Sunday morning congregation.

Independent of the beer question, Dr. Shelton said the thing most needed is respect for law by both individuals and communities.

"Whenever we cease to respect the law and live up to it," he said, "we have mob rule. Officials especially should observe the law. The cause of crime today is disregard of law."

Dr. Shelton said his church had no intention of disciplining anybody or turning any member out of the church, but he read the church discipline and the Methodist stand on prohibition "to put the church on notice, to call attention to world conditions and to plead for a united effort to stem the tide."

"Church Drinkers" Scored.

The prohibition question will be settled only "when the members of the Methodist, Baptist, Presbyterian and other denominations quit drinking, selling and making liquor," the Rev. Felton Williams, pastor of the Wesley Memorial church, said in his sermon Sunday morning.

"We will have no success until then and it's hard to tell when that will happen," he continued. "We must hope to get there by campaigns of education and in doctrinating our people with true temperance."

Mr. Williams said that the liquor business can never be trusted, that it was never reliable and is not reliable now. Beer interests, he charged, had already violated the local option promise by coming into dry territory. He discussed prohibition generally, making only the casual reference to the local beer situation.

DECISION NEARING ON TARIFF PLANS

Roosevelt May Reveal Course on Delicate Subject in Next Few Days.

WASHINGTON, May 21.—(AP)—The Roosevelt administration tonight faced an imminent decision on its new tariff bill, stalled off for weeks lest the explosive subject derail other important legislation.

Cordell Hull, secretary of state, today disclosed that he expected to plunge deeply into the delicate question in a conference tomorrow with President Roosevelt.

The bill now being drafted is intended to give the executive broad authority over tariffs, to be employed in the world monetary and economic conference in London.

As the bill now stands, its heart is the principle of tariff "bargaining"—lowering rates on certain products in return for concessions by another country on other goods. How much farther it goes and whether it will contain provisions for a horizontal slash in all tariffs, provided other countries do likewise, depends on the president's decision after his talk with Hull and other officials.

In fact, a definite decision is yet to be made on whether to send up the tariff bill at all. Up until a week or so ago it was definitely a part of the administration's program. More recently the word used in referring to it is "probable."

With the London conference opening June 12, and the American delegation sailing a week from this Wednesday, the time is growing short for action on the concededly controversial question.

Even among members of the administration differences of opinion exist. Secretary Hull before he took his present post advocated a 10 per cent cut in tariffs by all nations, although he now concedes this is only one of many methods of attaining the desired goal of lowered trade barriers.

Assistant Secretary Raymond Moley of the state department says the idea is "not to cut off the top of the wall" but to "open doors in our walls opposite doors in ther walls"—apparently a reference to reciprocal, bilateral tariff bargaining.

Evangeline Booth Hits Movements for Repeal

NEW YORK, May 21.—(AP)—Mrs. Ella A. Boole, president of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, today made public a telegram from Evangeline Booth, head of the Salvation Army, expressing that organization's opposition to repeal of the eighteenth amendment. It said:

"The Salvation Army stands unitedly opposed to the repeal of the eighteenth amendment. Throughout the world the organization is unwavering in its opposition to the liquor traffic, however conducted, and to the consumption of liquor in whatever form it may be taken, whether beer, wine, spirits, or otherwise. . . ."

Atlanta Cabinet Shop, Inc., Equipped for Body Repairs

Has your automobile run into trouble—or vice versa? Are its fenders and doors battered and dented or its cowling scratched or otherwise marred? Or have the winter's rugged weather and the bright spring sun left its woodwork rotted and the top like a filter for the summer's rains? Is the upholstery torn, soiled or worn through in the most noticeable spots?

If so

The Atlanta Cabinet Shop, Inc., according to J. G. Street, president, is just the "hospital" where these ills and many others may be treated and cured.

This shop, unlike many others, in addition to its usual line of work, caters to the automobile owner who occasionally suffers such misfortunes as those listed above.

The auto body repair department, of which J. C. Whitaker, a man with many years' experience in his chosen line, is manager, is completely equipped to handle any type of body work. This includes top sealing and recovering, seat covering, fender work, replacement of rotten woodwork, such as posts and top ribs, and many other phases.

The upholstering department, under the management of R. H. Allums, is closely allied with the body repair department. Mr. Allums, in addition to his expert automobile upholstery work, does a large volume of such work on porch and indoors furniture.

Another specialty, on which the Atlanta Cabinet Shop, Inc., is offering especially low rates for the next few days, is the making and fitting of window, door and porch screens. Screens of any size may be obtained in a choice of three wires—black enamel, galvanized or copper—with but little variance in price.

In connection with this, Mr. Street states that expert estimators are available at any time upon telephone request without charge, to supply information on the approximate cost of any job, whether it be screening, auto body work, upholstery, paint work, office or store fittings or other general cabinet work.

The Atlanta Cabinet Shop, Inc., is equipped with paint shop, tin shop and machine shop, each equipped for work of the highest type. For instance, in the machine shop the equipment includes a bandsaw, morticing machine, molder, ripsaw, cut-off saw, planer, shaper, joiner and turning lathe.

It is equipped for any kind of cabinet work, including its most intricate phases.

Many Atlanta business houses are equipped with showcases and other fixtures made by the Atlanta Cabinet Shop, Inc. Included among these are banks, beauty parlors, barber shops, cigar stores, drugstores, haberdasheries, jewelry stores, millinery shops, restaurants, shoe stores, shoe shine parlors and special furniture establishments.

The company also fashions store fronts, show windows, show cases, wall cases, bookcases, counters, office partitions and railings and miscellaneous furniture.

A call on the Atlanta Cabinet Shop, Inc., will convince the client of the efficient and capable service rendered in varied cabinet working and allied lines.

Urban League Bulletin

By JESSE O. THOMAS.

In a recent essay contest conducted by the Alpha Phi Alpha fraternity in the city of Atlanta, two of the three prizes offered in this contest were won by night school students. The first prize of $10 for college students was won by George A. Sewell Jr., of Morris Brown College; the first prize of $5 for senior high school students was won by Laurine Weaver, a student in the twelfth grade at Booker Washington Night High school, and the first prize of $3 for junior high school students was won by Della Armstrong, in the ninth grade at the Booker Washington Night school. In that the latter two are married women with families, to have won these prizes in competition with several hundred day students, is indeed an honor of great importance.

Dr. Charlotte Hawkins Brown, principal of the Palmer institute, Sedalia, N. C., was the guest speaker for the Atlanta Federation of Colored Women's Clubs at the First Congregational church Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock. Dr. Brown has distinguished herself considerably during recent years because of her remarkable contribution to the field of negro education.

What has developed into a yearly event has been the May Day demonstration by students of the Atlanta School of Social Work under the direction of Frankie V. Adams, field work supervisor of the school. The students, at Washington Park last Saturday, brought their social work technique to public exhibition by presenting the various groups they have had under their supervision. Folk dances, drills, plays and athletic events were among the activities of the day. Many citizens interested in the field work of these students were present to observe this project.

Thursday, June 1, at 8 p. m., Sisters' chapel, Spelman College, John M. Glenn, who for 25 years was director of the Russell Sage Foundation, New York city, will be the principal speaker for the commencement exercises of the Atlanta School of Social Work. Because of Mr. Glenn's pioneering contribution to the field of social work, a large number of friends of the school are looking forward to this event with much anticipation.

Dr. W. A. Smart, professor at Candler School of Theology, was the commencement speaker at Gammon Theological Seminary this past Wednesday, May 17. A large class was graduated and the event was well attended by friends of the school.

ROBERT TO GUIDE BUILDING WORK

Atlantan Expected To Direct Administration of Public Works Fund.

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.

WASHINGTON, May 21.—While a federal administrator will be appointed to direct the industrial control provisions of the mammoth economic rehabilitation measure submitted to congress this week, President Roosevelt, it was indicated today, will rely on Assistant Secretary of the Treasury L. W. (Chip) Robert, of Atlanta, to guide the huge public works section of the program.

Mr. Robert was appointed assistant secretary in charge of public building operations because of his thorough knowledge of the subject. For a number of years he has been the head of one of the largest engineering firms in the south. In his present capacity he is already the directing head of a public building program approximating $700,000,000, as heretofore authorized by congress and now under way.

It is pointed out that it would only be natural for the president to order the two programs linked together under a single head. Otherwise there would necessarily be much duplication of effort. Practically all of the government machinery for letting contracts and drawing up specifications for building projects, including the office of supervising architect, is centered in the treasury department. And Mr. Robert has jurisdiction over these several activities.

Just how much of the $3,300,000,000 authorized in the public works bill will go for building construction remains to be seen, but a considerable part of it is certain to. Outside of $400,000,000 especially set apart for highway construction in the several states, of which Georgia will get upwards of $10,000,000, the funds are not earmarked. All sorts of public and private construction projects are eligible for treatment, including a general housing program for slum clearance in congested centers.

Under this latter provision, it would be possible for the city of Atlanta, for example, to initiate a back-to-the-farm movement for relieving its unemployment problem and to this end purchase tracts of land and undertake a housing program in rural sections of the state. Or a program could be adopted for building improved housing conditions for the city's workers, with funds made available by the government.

Hugh Johnson, of New York, is reported to be the president's choice for administrator for industrial control provisions of the elaborate legislation. In the event of his appointment, he and Assistant Secretary Robert will be expected to collaborate in working out administrative features of the comprehensive program — admittedly the greatest peace-time operation of the government in its history.

FATE OF TOM MOONEY BEFORE COURT TODAY

SAN FRANCISCO, May 21.—(AP) Whether Tom Mooney's "vacation," the first in 12 years, from San Quentin prison is to be terminated as suddenly as it started depended upon action of the California supreme court here tomorrow.

The court may act promptly or may extend indefinitely the one-day delay in the convict's second murder trial ordered yesterday by Superior Judge Louis H. Ward.

Judge Ward postponed start of the trial until Tuesday so the higher tribunal might have an opportunity to consider a petition attacking Mooney's right to place himself in jeopardy a second time for the San Francisco Preparedness Day bombing.

In the event the supreme court, instead of deciding the question immediately, orders a temporary stay of the trial pending further consideration, Judge Ward said Mooney must return to prison "to await disposition of the matter."

The HONEYMOON MURDER

BY CAROLYN WELLS

INSTALLMENT XXXI.

"You see a resemblance, then? In the two cases, I mean?"

"Resemblance? They are identical. You see, the hotel room was practically sealed because of the fact the two people were shut in it alone. And the second case, the young man, was in a sealed room, you say. So, we're hunting for a method of death, which will not be prevented or impeded by obstacles of any sort."

"Bringing it back to the miraculous."

"If you like. Do you suspect any of the party or household or whoever were concerned?"

"None of them knows anything about medicine or toxicology."

"Yet the deed was done."

"Yes, and it's up to me to discover who did it and how and why. I am not backing down on this job, I am not asking help, except, as I always must, in matters of which I know too little. I've made a study of poisons, as you know, Simps, but this is beyond me."

"I dont' apprehend a new poison, Stone. If it is poison, it is a new way of using it, or an ingenious method of application—oh, well, when we have the post mortems we'll know. I'll get those necessary organs—few could manage that trick and I'm not sure I can. But I think so, and then, we'll see."

"And you'll make all the haste possible?" said Fleming Stone.

"Of course," replied Dr. Simpson. "You know that without my telling you. You'll have to be here; my eyes are not all they used to be and I don't want to drag in outsiders."

"I wish you'd give me a hint of what you're looking."

"Can't do it, boy. At least, not now. I'll call you as soon as I can use you. Day after tomorrow, likely. Till then, you scout around and see if any of your suspects have been over here asking questions."

"Why, has anybody?"

"Yes, but you needn't ask who, for I won't tell you. I am not one to get innocent folks in trouble."

"I wish you could keep that poor girl out of trouble. Mrs. Malden, I mean. She's so brave and plucky, yet she's scared all to pieces. It all depends on our getting at the identity of the criminal before somebody pounces on her."

"Poor child. I'll do all I can. Why in the world do they accuse her of the second death, too?"

"Only because the old dame is looney. I mean really touched, not just angry and excitable."

"Oh, I doubt she's demented. However, that's outside my jurisdiction. You keep a watch on her, though, she may do the little lady harm."

"She has a nurse and Mrs. Malden's people all have an eye on her. But she can't be the murderer and that's the one I want to find."

* * * *

Fleming Stone sat at his wide, flat-topped desk, with many papers spread out before him. A careless observer would think the lot in hopeless disorder, but Stone knew for a certainty just which pile any paper or letter was in and could lay his hand on it in a moment.

He had a secretary and a competent one, but his work was largely that of research and seldom had to do with sorting or filing documents.

Most of the letters before the detective at the moment were those which had made up the packet Stone took from Bob Coles' suitcase when in Scottstown. He knew what they were and the others were papers Bob had been able to corral, which had to do with the Washington or Richmond elements of the case.

To Stone's disappointment they had not amounted to much, but a sudden thought had turned his attention back to the mass of documents. Hastily he ran over letters from friends of Corey Malden, as well as small scraps of memoranda or odd notes written by the same people, yet not in any way connected with the matter in hand.

Yet he studied them all with meticulous care and sorted them into neat piles of corresponding penmanship.

"There it is," he said to himself, "as plain as day. No chance of mistaking it."

He reached for a good-sized book from the shelves behind him and read the marked paragraphs over.

"This is the sign of love of large sums of money, and its prevalence in handwriting has to be carefully estimated. To find one a or o, which has this break, would have slight significance. One or two, even, might be accidents, but not when the break is constantly repeated."

He called his secretary from the next room.

"Plum," he said, as the man appeared, "I 'm going 'round to see Miss Curry, the graphologist. Hold the fort, and learn anything you can from callers, but tell no one where I've gone."

In less than a half hour he was earnestly talking with the young woman whom he considered the best handwriting expert he knew.

"You're right, Mr. Stone," she said, after studying the specimens he showed her. "That sign is unmistakable and undeniable. An opening at the top of a small a or o, merely means garrulity or generosity, but an opening, be it ever so tiny, at the bottom, is something to ponder over. This information is well-nigh impossible to imitate. To show its full significance, it must be universal in the person's writing. One here and there would mean othing. Found only in the a and not in the o, it would be uncertain, but always there, in both these letters, it is positive.

"This is the sign of that trait of humanity, which makes them tempted, not by small peculations, but by thefts of very large sums. Often they have but this one temptation, this one weakness. The people who write these broken-based letters are tempted only by quantities of money, not at all be small sums.

"Moreover, this information indicates mathematical talent. And so, these writers frequently attain positions of trust and at skilled labor. It is easily recognized and it is impossible for the man who uses it to control his hand so that he shall not use it. It is the most terrible 'give-away' in all graphology, and should be well known to all employers, which, alas! it is not."

"This is all most interesting, Miss Curry. To be sure, I have read it in your book, but it is far more definite to hear you say it. I'd rather not show you the writing of this man—"

"It is not necessary, Mr. Stone. The opening at the bottom of the letter is, I am sure, always there. It may be almost undiscoverable, even with a strong lens, but it is there, as you will find, if you try hard enough. And your man who wrote it may seem the soul of honesty, the most punctilious of financiers. And he is, in small or medium matters. But give him a chance at a real big haul, and see him fall for it!"

"Do you often meet this letter formation is specimens sent to you to analyze?"

"No; such people and their friends, if the friends know about it, prefer to keep such things hidden. In fact, I have never seen a clearer, more positive delineation of it than the one you showed me."

"All graphologists know of this fact," of course?"

"Oh, yes; and many laymen. I try to broadcast the information for the protection of those who employ high-class accountants. Yet a man might work for one employer for years, and show no trace whatever of the slightest disohonesty, and then comes opportunity, and he succumbs."

Stone showed Miss Curry a few letters he wanted to know about, and then, the interview over, he went home, thinking deeply over the matter of handwriting in general, and his interest in it in particular.

"Guess I'll have to study up on it a bit," he told himself. "I can get the goods from her, all right, but I'd like to know a little more of the art or science, whichever it is. She's got it all at her tongue's end. Very slick young woman."

He went over the letters and papers again.

He had told Bob to get all possible bits of handwriting done by anyone connected with the case, and he had also told him to cut off all names or addresses, which would help to identify them.

This, he planned because he wanted to deduce for himself who wrote the various sheets. And knowing Bob would keep a full and detailed account of the writers, he thought the matter safe. Now, he was all afloat, having no list of the writers and only his own guesses to guide him.

Moreover, he found that two of the specimens, by different hands, both bore than strange "o" broken at the base.

One of these he knew to be that of the lawyer, Farman.

It would be plausible enough to think that Farman was eager for a large sum of money, but far from likely that he stood any chance of getting it. If he proposed to loot the Malden coffers, he would have to get up very early in the morning. The other one was too ridiculous to think about. Might as well suspect Perilla herself.

He continued his task of reading over the letters. It might be possible, he thought, that Miss Curry's information should add some little light on the dark outlook.

The names of the men he sought for were almost never mentioned. He discovered the minor fact that Roger Gartha studied to be a doctor before he decided to be a lawyer. Also, a note added in Bob's hand, stated that Tony Gaskell had worked in a chemical laboratory many years ago, and that Bob himself wished he might do the same.

It was then that Stone concluded to go see Mrs. Coles. He felt he ought to do so anyway, but he hoped to learn something pertient to Bob or Bob's work.

To his surprise and satisfaction, he found the lady was visiting friends in New York and therefore he need not go to Philadelphia. It was not such a long journey, but Stone's time was valuable, and he had a lot to do.

Soon after telephoning for an appointment to call, the detective went that afternoon to see Bob's mother.

He found a sweet-faced, fair-haired little lady who greeted him with a sad smile.

"I am glad to see you," she said. "because Bob had grown very fond of you. He had thought of being a doctor or rather a chemical expert—I don't know just what they call them—but he changed entirely and wanted only to be a detective."

"I wish he might have done so," Stone responded. "I should have been glad and proud to have him for my assistant."

"He had a fine mind, my Bobby," said Mrs. Coles, and Stone willingly agreed with her.

CULBERTSON ON CONTRACT

BY ELY CULBERTSON,
World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst.

Auction's Last Stand

It will be, no doubt, a matter of surprise to many players who take their Contract seriously and play either in one of the larger Bridge clubs or in select circles to learn that Auction is still a popular game in some sections of the country. Among the larger cities of the United States Auction made its last stand as a club-and-tournament game in the city of Cleveland, where, for some eight or nine years an interclub Auction league presented a program of interclub team-of-four play in which members of the various social clubs participated in the play of hands at Duplicate Bridge. The city championship was hotly contested, and the relative values of games at major suits or no-trump were part of every good Auction player's mental equipment. The fact that four hearts made was worth 187 points if the partnership held simple honors, compared with the score of 185 for three aces, frequently determined the eventual contract. For instance, a player was often faced with close decisions as to whether or not he should try to make four spades with simple honors, worth 191 points, in preference to a safer game contract of five diamonds, which under the same conditions would net only 190.

However much we may think that Duplicate Auction accentuated actual values, as Duplicate Contract does, in making a difference in the value of game-going contracts, unquestionably many fine defensive plays were made in Auction, even with the slight information given in the bidding compared with the precise information ordinarily conveyed in reaching a game declaration at Contract.

One of the last hands played at Duplicate Auction in Cleveland was the one below, in which South was eventually forced to a contract of five spades:

South, Dealer.

	♠ A 10 4 ♡ 2 ◇ J 7 2 ♣ K J 10 8 6 2
♠ 9 6 ♡ A K J 7 3 ◇ K 10 6 ♣ 5 4	N W E S	♠ 7 3 ♡ 10 8 6 5 4 ◇ 8 3 ♣ Q 7 5 4
	♠ K Q J 8 5 2 ♡ Q 9 ◇ A Q 9 ♣ A 3

At every table but one, six spades were made, and at that table the small Slam at Auction was defeated only by the skillful playing of Mr. C. E. Emrich, who was a member of the last championship Auction team in Cleveland. He held the West hand and opened with the heart King, which was, of course, the universal Opening. Other players shifted at this point to either a trump or club, and permitted the making of the remaining tricks. However, Mr. Emrich, by the comparatively rare expedient of giving the Declarer a ruff in the weak trump hand, held the contract to five. He continued, after leading the King, with the Ace of Hearts, thereby forcing a ruff by Dummy, which effectually prevented the setting up of the club suit for discards of losing diamonds. Ordinarily it is extremely bad play to deliberately give the Declarer a ruff in a hand weak in trumps, but the good player sees the situations which are exceptions as well as the situations which prove the rule.

TOMORROW'S HAND.

If you, as East, were playing to defeat a contract of six clubs and your partner had opened the spade 8, what line of defense would you adopt when you eventually won a trick with the club King?

South, Dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.
Part-score: North and South 60.

	♠ K J 10 7 4 ♡ A Q 10 8 4 ◇ J 6 ♣ 7
♠ 8 3 2 ♡ 7 6 5 2 ◇ K 8 7 3 2 ♣ 8	N W E S	♠ Q 9 6 ♡ K 9 3 ◇ 10 5 ♣ K 6 4 3 2
	♠ A 5 ♡ J ◇ A Q 9 4 ♣ A Q J 10 9 5

The hand will be discussed in tomorrow's article.

FRIENDLY COUNSEL

BY CAROLINE CHATFIELD

Problems of general interest submitted by readers will be discussed in this column. Correspondence invited. Your name held in confidence. Write Miss Chatfield, care The Atlanta Constitution.

Dear Miss Chatfield: I suppose my husband is good as the average husband and yet I am not happy. He gives me enough of this world's goods, a nice home, a comfortable allowance and keeps me supplied with a new automobile. We have no children and, being a very reserved person, I don't make close friends, so I am dependent upon him for companionship. He seems to prefer to spend his leisure hours with his men friends. He goes fishing and takes them along, leaving me at home. Sometimes we have a card game at home, but oftener than otherwise he plays at the club. We never quarrel or have any disagreeableness at home. I am said to be a good housekeeper and homemaker and our domestic machinery runs smoothly. What is the matter that he doesn't like to stay at home with me and doesn't like to take me with him when he goes away?

LONELY.

Answer: Someone has aptly said that the average person enters marriage, expecting the other party to furnish nine-tenths of the happiness and him or herself one-tenth, whereas one must expect to furnish nine-tenths and expect the one-tenth to be furnished by the other party. Here is a fine case in point. The very reserve that keeps the wife from forming close friendships with outsiders keeps her from forming a close friendship with her husband. The very evidence that she gives him of being discontented and unhappy in the life she leads keeps him from enjoying companionship with her and sends him out to seek gayer, pleasanter association with the men of his acquaintance. Unconsciously, perhaps, he reads in his wife's sad eyes the record of his failure and a swift instinct drives him away from the sight of it. Her loneliness is a reproach to him, yet being unable to cope with it he clears out before it engulfs him. The well-kept house has a chilly atmosphere. There is an ominous silence about the well-oiled, smooth running domestic machinery. The relation between husband and wife is "icily perfect, splendidly null," and these are the reasons that the husband doesn't like to stay at home nor to take his wife with him when he goes away. These are the reasons why neither is happy. Luckily, they can be removed—these joy-killing circumstances—but only if husband and wife acquire and exercise wit and wisdom.

Under a slangy caption, "Whatta World," a young businessman writes a clever column designed to divert and amuse his readers. Departing from his usual choice of topics he recently wrote a masterly "problem column" and in his humourous and breezy fashion outlined a deep philosophy of marriage that deserves to be passed on to unhappy wives. The gist of his idea is that above all else a man wants to make his wife happy, and to be happy himself he requires the constant assurance from her that he is succeeding. But the writer goes further and declares that so firmly is this instinct implanted in a man—this desire to make a woman happy—that if his wife fails to give him the assurance he craves he stands ready to receive it from the first woman that comes along. So he humorously concludes that the women who want to hold the affection and loyalty of their husbands can only be certain of it by keeping their men convinced beyond the shadow of a doubt that they are happy.

What does it matter if it is basically male vanity that makes the demand? What difference does it make if it is another manifestation of a man's egotism? What's the harm of a man's making a naive and child-like bid for a woman's approbation? The answering instincts are implanted in her breast if she will but obey them. From time immemorial a woman has looked to a man for love and protection and support and when these have been secured she is happy and contented, and should be. Because, first of all, she is a feminine creature, with maternal instinct she humours and mothers all males. These are the answering instincts that bid her constantly to tell her husband he has succeeded in making her happy. If she understands her own nature she should be equally capable of understanding and appreciating his.

Sun Suits Need Discretion in the Wearing.

BY FLORENCE La GANKE.

Ann was out in her play yard from early morning until lunch time. After lunch there came a nap. Then at 4 o'clock she was given a shower bath and dressed in simple afternoon clothes. She was ready to meet her

Daddy when he came home. At 7 she was in bed, having had her simple supper of cereal, crusty bread and fruit puree, milk and simple cookies at 6 o'clock.

Lois had her on a schedule and kept to it religiously. Ann was thriving and was far different from the puny, whining child of a year or so ago.

Simple foods, routine carefully kept, plenty of out-of-doors exercise and hours of sleep in a quiet darkened room had done wonders for the child.

Lois profited by Nancy's experiences with sun suits. In the beginning sun suits without any protecting wrap were worn in the heat of the midsummer day. Hats were scorned. As a result the skin was tanned almost to a burning red and eyes were squinted to keep out the bright sun.

In shady spots or where the sun shine filtered through Ann wore her sun suit and discarded her hat. But when she started out in the blazing sun there was a hat with a brim large enough to protect her eyes and the back of her neck.

A simple coat of cotton was worn until the sand box was reached. Here a large umbrella had been erected to keep off the hottest rays of the sun.

Atlanta Divides Double-Header With Knoxville, 13 to 9 and 0 to 5

Roosevelt Influence Must Be At Work On Ted Kleinhans

It must be the Roosevelt influence at work again. No man named after a Roosevelt should be in there taking a pasting. That is most obvious!

And so Theodore Hans Kleinhans has gone almost a month without having a blot on what he has nicknamed his escutcheon, or heraldic shield.

The last time they took the Kleinhans boy over the jumps was on April 23, New Orleans winning that day by a 5-to-4 score.

Since that date he has gone to town, so to speak, beating Birmingham on April 27, Memphis on May 6, Chattanooga on May 11, Memphis on May 16 and Knoxville on May 21. In those games he gave up a total of six runs, excepting the Sunday game with Knoxville wherein he coasted along with a safe lead and gave up nine hits.

The boy has lost but two games and both of them were by a margin of one run. Birmingham beat him 3 to 2, on April 19 and New Orleans won 5 to 4 on April 23, his last defeat. He will not work again until about Friday so that more than a month is sure to come up and disappear on the form sheets before he has even a chance to lose one.

He has struck out 35 men and his hits have been well scattered. In a couple of early games he was driven from the box but did not receive credit for a defeat.

Kleinhans' record easily surpasses that of any other rookie pitcher in the league. What makes it the more remarkable is that he has been pitching for a team which has not, until the last week, displayed any punch at the plate. The boy looks like a great prospect for a major league success. If he clicks Branch Rickey, who once had the boy down on a Cardinal farm, will gnash his molars in rage. He rarely lets a good one escape.

THE NIEHOFF BLUES.

It cost Chattanooga a net loss of $30,000 to win the 1932 pennant when Memphis, an inexpensive team, threatened. Indications are that the Lookouts will need to have at least one spending spree. The team dropped a double-header Sunday to the Vols. It is well down in the league standings and shows no signs of bounding up.

The failure of the Lookouts is one of the current mysteries. The team returned enough of last year's pennant winners to form a rather formidable nucleus. It was rated well up in the pre-season predictions.

Yet the team has failed to click. Loss of Cecil Travis, third baseman, was a rather severe blow. Travis is likely to be returned but he returns an "A" man which means more adjustments will be necessary. Bertram Niehoff, the Lookout manager, is ill with the mulligrubs, that terrible disease. It has been a sorrowful spring for Bertram. He may be found quoting most any day, "A sorrow's crown of sorrow is remembering happier days."

THE WILD HORSE OF THE OSAGE.

Baseball fans generally will welcome the return of Pepper Martin, "The Wild Horse of the Osage," to the ranks of the stars.

It was in the 1931 World Series that he was tagged with the "wild horse" phrase. He ran wild that fall, upsetting the Athletics in the second game with a sudden steal of third base, one of the most unusual feats in baseball. Rarely is the third sack stolen.

He stole five bases during the series, got 12 hits in 24 times at bat and accepted 10 chances without an error. Little was expected of him. The fates chose him as the man to mark and his play was really the winning factor.

In 1932 Martin was hurt, ill, and unable to hit when well. The pitchers seemed to have his weakness spotted and it was a dreary season for the Wild Horse of the Osage.

His start this spring was slow but two weeks ago he got going. He is now hitting .381 through the last official figures and got two hits to win for his team Sunday.

NOT SINCE BULL RUN.

Not since Bull Run have the Yankees had such a kicking about as they are now getting at the hands of their American league rivals.

The western trip, recently completed, saw the Tigers and the White Sox win from the Yankees. Now that the team has come home the St. Louis Browns have taken it over the jump for a couple of games.

Cleveland and Washington seem unable to string together any sort of victory streak or the Yankees would have been ousted from first place ere now. As it is they are hanging in there by the slim margin of a game and a half.

A month ago the Yankees were a 1-to-3 favorite to repeat. And now the odds are about even. It was just a month ago that the boys were writing that the Yankees were invincible. They were viewing with alarm the heinous practice of buying up a winner and thus ruining the league.

But now the rivals are up in arms and in there busting the Yankees with great enthusiasm and eclat.

HEAD PLAY—BARN SWALLOW.

Head Play's price will be better in his next start because of his loss in the Wood Memorial. It would not make the suspicious people feel any better about the great gambling game were he to go ahead and win the American Derby with the ease in which he captured the Preakness.

While Head Play was losing Saturday, the E. R. Bradley stable was winning another honor, the Kentucky Oaks, the season's greatest test for three-year-old fillies. Barn Swallow was the winner.

Colonel Bradley's stables have had a great year even though they do lack a really outstanding performer in the three-year-old ranks.

CRACKERS LEAD WEEK OF PLAY WITH SIX WINS

Four Clubs Finish Neck and Neck for Second Place.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., May 21.—(AP)—Nip-and-tuck playing gave Atlanta last week's leadership of the Southern association, but New Orleans, Nashville, Memphis and Chattanooga finished neck-and-neck for second place.

The Crackers won six of their eight games, earning a percentage of .750 while the second place clubs each won four and lost four games, averaging .500. Third place went to Knoxville.

There were 41 runs and 88 hits on Atlanta's record when the books were closed Saturday night, but there also were 10 errors and 40 opponent runs.

PELS STAR.

Of the clubs tied for second place, New Orleans, leader in the season standings, turned in the best performance. The Pels made 47 runs while holding opponents to 39. They also had 80 hits to their credit and five home runs. An even dozen errors were recorded against them.

Memphis, second-place club for the season, made 35 runs and 78 hits in eight games, but allowed opponents 41 runs. The Chicks tied the Vols for the home run record for the week with seven and had the smallest number of errors, eight.

Nashville, specializing on heavy hitting, was prone to make miscues. The Vols had 56 runs and 101 hits but opponents got across 54 tallies. The Vols made 16 errors.

Chattanooga, with 44 runs and 80 hits, allowed opponents ten more runs than they made and had 14 errors.

SMOKIES LOSE FOUR.

The Smokies averaged .429 on three games won and four lost. They had 40 runs and 78 hits with nine errors and 35 opponents' runs.

Little Rock also averaged .429 on a like number of victories and defeats. The team registered 34 runs and 65 hits with seven errors and 30 opponent runs.

Birmingham's Barons brought up the rear for the week with only three victories out of eight games. They gave opponents four more than their own 44 runs and had 86 hits with 17 errors.

The week's record: (Prepared by C. H. Miller Jr., official Southern Association statistician.)

TEAM SELECTED FOR CUP PLAY

NEW YORK, May 21.—(AP)—The United States Lawn Tennis Association today formally selected Ellsworth Vines, Wilmer Allison, George Lott and John Van Ryn to represent this country in the American zone Davis cup finals against Argentina at the Chevy Chase Club, Washington, Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

These same four players won all five matches against Canada last week.

While it will not be decided officially until the draw on Wednesday how the United States and Argentine players will be used in singles and doubles, it is probable that Vines and Allison will continue to play singles and Lott and Van Ryn the doubles. For Argentina, Captain Adrian Zappa and Edelmar Echeverria probably will handle the singles assignment with Americo H. Cataruzza possibly getting into the competition in doubles.

STEINBORN OUT FOR WIN HERE

Milo Steinborn, the German strong man who has declared war on all Greek wrestlers and so far met with considerable success in his campaign of elimination, faces the acid test at the auditorium Tuesday night when he will attempt to add the name of George Zaharias, the Human Truck, to his list of victims.

Save only Jim Londos, generally recognized as champion, Zaharias is the best of all the Hellenic grapplers. He is big, rugged, powerful and the most accomplished referee-baiter on the mat today. There's practically nothing George won't do to get the better of an opponent. Sometimes he is allowed to get away with it and sometimes he is disqualified for unnecessary roughness, but even such experiences as this have failed to alter the Greek's style of milling.

Almost on a par with the main bout in the interest it has aroused is the one-hour semi-final Tuesday, bringing together Jack Zarnos, Ohio University Greek who has won a number of matches in Atlanta, and Frank Judson, former professor of holds at Harvard University. Judson is a wrestler of wide experience who is known as one of the most scientific men in the game. At the same time, he has proved himself able to cope with the boys who favor the rough stuff, and he will need this ability against Zarnos. The young Greek is smaller than his countryman, Zaharias, but every bit as mean.

This is the final show of the indoor season. Matchmaker Henry Weber announces, and from present indications will be one of the best attended. Fans are urged to purchase their tickets in advance today and tomorrow at the Miner & Carter Drug Company or the Piedmont Hatters.

TONY CANZONERI DEFEATS SHAW

NEW ORLEANS, May 21.—(AP)—Tony Canzoneri, lightweight champion, today won back the junior welterweight championship with a 10-round decision over Battling Shaw, Mexican, before 10,000 fans in Heinemann baseball park.

The Mexican put up a gallant defense of his title, but could not cope with Tony's weaving tactics and damaging right hook, with which the challenger scored two knockdowns, one at the end of the seventh round and another in which Shaw took the count of nine early in the eighth. Canzoneri risked only his prestige in the fight, the lightweight title not being at stake. Shaw weighed 136 1-2 and Canzoneri 133.

Constitution Team Routed by J. P. C.

The Jewish Progressive Club made a complete rout of The Constitution team in the opening game of the Press league season in beating the press boys by the score of 17 to 3. Friedlander, of J. P. C., off to a shaky start, settled down and pitched fine ball for the remainder of the game.

BROWNS DEFEAT YANKEES AGAIN; HADLEY PITCHES

Van Atta Sent to Showers; Second Straight for St. Louis.

NEW YORK, May 21.—(AP)—The St. Louis Browns continued their assaults on the Yankees today, climbing into sixth place in the American league standing as they knocked off the world's champions for the second straight time, 8 to 4.

HADLEY.

The Browns piled up 15 hits off three New York pitchers, giving Russell Van Atta, rookie southpaw, a drubbing, while Irving (Bump) Hadley overcame his wildness and held the Yanks to four hits to ring up his sixth triumph of the season.

Hadley issued eight bases on balls but he pitched fine ball in the pinches. Three of the Yankee runs came as the result of a fluke home run in the seventh inning when, with Frank Crosetti and Dixie Walker on base, Ted Gullic lost a fly in the sun and Combs circled the bases.

Lou Gehrig drove in the first Yankee run with an infield hit in the opening round after Combs had drawn Hadley's first pass and Babe Ruth had advanced him with a single.

Atlanta Is Home For Long Stay Starting June 5

Club Will Play Twenty-One Games During Stand; Night Contests Probably Will Start at That Time.

Atlanta, which has been accorded all the deference of a red-headed stepchild in the fashioning of the Southern league schedule for 1933, at last has a rest coming after considerable hopping, skipping and jumping about the circuit.

The Crackers, forced to travel 12,084 miles this year, compared to only 7,577 for Birmingham and 8,607 for Memphis, have about reached that point in their schedule where they will remain at home long enough to get the cinders out of their eyes and the kinks out of their Pullman legs.

Following the present brief sally on the road, the Crackers come back for four games hand running with Chattanooga, Tenn., after one more visit to Memphis and Little Rock, they open a 21-game stand at home during the month of June with Nashville here on June 5, 6, 7, playing a double-header on the latter date.

During this stretch, the Crackers probably will start playing one night game a week, since real summer weather has come on. It is believed that a sufficient number of persons work in the day time to appreciate the chance to get off and see a game at least once a week and that it will help pad the attendance somewhat. The Crackers have been drawing fairly well, but not quite up to expectations with the team in the race.

JUNE GAMES.

Nashville, Birmingham, Little Rock and Knoxville are here for series of four games each in June, while Memphis is here for five, giving Atlanta 21 of the possible 30 playing dates. Following is the team's home schedule for that month:

June 5, 6, 7—Nashville (2 games on 7th.)

June 8, 9, 10—Knoxville (2 games on 10th.)

June 12, 13, 14—Little Rock (2 games on 14th.)

June 15, 16, 17, 19, 20—Memphis.

June 21, 22, 23, 24—Birmingham.

Since the Crackers have won a great majority of their home contests, this long run at Ponce de Leon should give them their golden chance to get to the top, if they have it in them. They have won all seven of the games with Little Rock and it is to be noted that four are listed with that club here in June. Truly, Atlanta deserves a break on the schedule.

PRESIDENT'S CUP PLAY IN FINALS

Hugh Carter Jr. advanced to the finals of the annual President's Trophy tournament for members of the Capital City Country Club with two victories during the past week. Carter won from E. A. Kalkhurst, 2-1, in the quarter finals and eliminated I. J. Osbun, 3-2, in a semi-final match Sunday afternoon.

In winning his way to the finals Carter played his best golf in recent months and carded a 69, two under par, Sunday. Osbun also played a good round of 73, but could not cope with the sub-par golf, scored by Carter.

Other semi-finals in the three flights will be played during the coming week.

The results:

CHAMPIONSHIP FLIGHT.
R. A. McCord beat Charlie Black Jr., 3-1.
Dave Black beat Charlie Nunnally, 1 up.

J. B. Poiner won the regular weekly blind bogey tournament for members of the Piedmont Park golf course with a net 88. Second prize went to B. R. Jamison.

McConnell, Mullins Win at West End.

J. B. McConnell and R. L. Mullins won first prize in a two-ball handicap tournament for members of the West End club with a net 60 Sunday afternoon.

Clyde Spinks Jr. had the best individual score of the day when he carded a 70.

RUTH NEEDS HOMERS.

Babe Ruth will need approximately 150 additional free trips to first base to attain a total of 2,000 for his career. At more than 1,850 walks he is far ahead of any other major league player.

Webb Is Expected In Town Today

Wottaman Spike Webb, the Tarheel with the armor piercing right hand, is expected to arrive in Atlanta today. Webb will meet "Four-H" Posey, popular southern middleweight, in the feature 10-round bout of the fight show being presented at the Cain street arena, Wednesday night. Wottaman is no stranger to Atlanta fight fans.

Posey is training for this fight at Fort Benning, Ga., and there is no doubt of his arriving in Atlanta Wednesday in the pink of condition.

Tech Prospects Good For '34 Baseball Team

By Jack Troy.

The college baseball season has passed another milestone, but Coach Bobby Dodd, out at Georgia Tech, is already looking ahead to next year.

Dodd loses only one regular, Captain Bill Hogsed, hard-working third-baseman. There is a possibility, too, that Cannon Ball Baker, right-handed pitcher, will not return. But outside of these players Dodd will have the same team back and will have some likely recruits from the freshman squad of this season.

"I think we ought to be all set next season," Dodd said the other day. "I'll have to look around considerably for a third-baseman as good as Hogsed was, but in all other departments, pitchers included, I believe we will be better."

GROSSI DELIVERS.

Dodd revealed that he had just tossed Grossi, who at the end of the season was one of the best shortstops in this section, into the breach when other players had failed him.

"I was sure that Grossi could field the position all right, but was afraid of his hitting. But, good golly, he stepped out and became one of my best hitters. He ought to be pretty good next season."

Pug Boyd and Hoot Gibson, the former Tech High stars, should be improved after a season of varsity experience.

Shorty Roberts became a sensation during the season just closed. He was shifted from right to center and patrolled his territory like a veteran.

It seems pretty certain that next year's outfield will remain unchanged, with Johnny Ferguson in left, Roberts in center and Tommy Spradling in right.

The infield should remain intact, with the exception, of course, of third base. Hoot Gibson will be at first, Hardin at second and Grossi at short. Sun Dial Martin is a promising infielder.

CROWLEY HURT.

Tech was handicapped this past season because of the loss of Sheriff Crowley, right-handed pitcher, who had a sore arm all year. Crowley was alternate captain of the Jacket nine but couldn't be used.

Sam Stribling, Lefty Everett and Carpenter will return as a nucleus of a pitching staff. Pug Boyd will catch. Circus Lyons is a promising pitcher coming up from the freshman team.

Tech should be hard to beat next year.

TED KLEINHANS BEATS SMOKIES IN FIRST GAM

Meadows Routed in Sec ond; Hasty Comes to Relief.

KNOXVILLE, May 21.—Joe Do jack, rookie right-hander, turned a masterful pitching performance the second game of today's doubl header to blank the Crackers, 5 to and gain an even break in the Sabbat Day attraction that was witnessed b 3,000 fans. Atlanta won the opene 13 to 9.

Three home runs, one by Joe Bon witz inside the park, decided the is sue in the first game. Kleinhans an Phillips were the other two guilt parties.

Both Kleinhans and Grady Adkin the starting Knoxville hurled, we hit hard, but Kleinhans' mates mad it possible for him to survive. Ad kins gave way early in favor of Bi Rabb, who was treated discourteousl to say the least.

Three Atlanta pitchers worked th second game with Meadows receivin credit for the defeat. Barrett, wh played scored part of the game, fiel ed extremely well.

The Crackers semeed very much i a hurry to get somewhere in the open ing game. Chatham opened with double against the scoreboard. A kins hit Sington and Bonowitz score both of them with a clean doubl Phillips' single counted the third ru

Knoxville went at Kleinhans' thro from the first batter. Walks by Horn and Gooch, sandwiched with singl from the booming bats of French, A lington and Holt accounted for fou runs and put them into the lead.

Undaunted the Crackers forge ahead in the second. Kleinhans' hom run over the left-field wall tied th count, 4-4, and the winning run w scored after French allowed Cha ham's fly to right to get away fro him in the sun. It went for tw bases. Rollings' single sent him t third and Sington's fielder's choi shoved him across the plate.

Eddie Phillips picked out his f vorite spot over the left-field wall i the third for one of those powerf home-run drives.

Knoxville recaptured one of th runs in the fourth and then the gam really and truly went into a see-sa affair. Atlanta made three in thei half of the fifth and the Smokie duplicated when their turn came. On more Cracker run was added in th sixth. The Crackers scored two ru in the ninth and the Smokies calle it a day with one final scoring ge ture that produced a single tally.

The third saw the end of Mr. Rufu Meadows. Hipps and Gooch single in succession, and with one out, Moor waved Mr. Meadows to the shower and Bob Hasty, the veteran righ hander, took over the curving tas Doljack, apparently growing stronge as the game progressed, continued t serve big, round goose eggs for the r mainder of the afternoon. Meanwhil the Crackers changed pitchers agai with Aube replacing Hasty at th beginning of the sixth. Two error and one hit gave Knoxville their la two runs.

Butcher, Aube Will Face Vols.

Max Butcher is scheduled to fac Nashville tonight when the Cracker and Vols play the Southern league' first contest of the season unde lights.

Manager Charley Moore stated be fore leaving Atlanta that he planne to work Butcher Monday night an Aube Tuesday night because of thei speed. Butcher, who is on his wa to a strikeout record, is expected t baffle the hard-hitting Vols with hi fast ball. Aube also is a fast ba pitcher.

President Wilbert Robinson motore to Charlotte yesterday to see abou his club there, which has taken th Piedmont league lead in a sensationa spurt under Guy Lacy and Johnny Dobbs.

Nearly 5,000 Watch Schmeling Work Out

LAKE SWANNANOA, N. J., May 21.—(UP)—Nearly 5,000 visitors jammed the outdoor arena today and watched Max Schmeling go through the hardest workout of his training preparations for his 15-round bout against Maxie Baer at New York June 8.

His work included six rounds of boxing with Phil Cohen, Henry Gerken and Tommy Destefano.

Will Gunn Beaten By Chris Brinke

PHILADELPHIA, May 21.—(AP)—Chris Brinke, of Coatesville, state amateur golf champion, had a field day at the Concord Country Club today as he defeated Will Gunn in the final round for the second successive year to carry off the honors in the annual invitation tournament. Brinke's margin of victory over Gunn, only Philadelphia amateur to qualify for the United States open, was 4 and 3.

Fort Benning Wins Over Fulton Bag

FORT BENNING, Ga., May 21.—A two run rally in the ninth inning enabled Fort Benning to beat Fulton Bag and Cotton Mills team here this morning by a score of 4 to 3. The visitors went into the lead in the ninth after the score had been tied from the first inning at two each.

Wolgast To Meet Mauer on Friday

NEW YORK, May 21.—(AP)—The national boxing schedule slows down to a walk this week with not one outstanding match in prospect.

A 10-round non-title bout between Midget Wolgast, of Philadelphia, generally recognized as flyweight king, and Ernie Maurer at Detroit Friday night, and a middleweight struggle at the St. Nicholas arena here Monday night between Paulie Walker, of Trenton, N. J., and Eddie (Kid) Wolfe, of Memphis, seem to be the best offerings.

Atlanta Has Couple Of Fastest Rookies

Johnny Nee Consoles 'Robby' With Opinion Butcher, Kleinhans Loop's Prize Youngsters.

By Jimmy Jones.

Wilbert Robinson, the old Oriole catcher, was talking with Johnny ee, the Yankee scout, about the dearth of speed ball pitchers in the outhern league this year.

Robby, being a great booster for the stalwart sons of the provinces ho can rear back and zip that fast one past the hitter, was morose d saddened over the outlook. He listed off the fast ball pitchers that knew on the stubby digits of a plump hand and shook his head in comete discouragement.

Then Johnny Nee, the old scout, came out with a statement that used Robby to perk up a bit in his chair.

"Unless I am seriously mistaken, ur Atlanta club has about all the eed there is in the league on its aff," opined Johnny Nee. "I've en a lot of good young pitchers, t I haven't seen many with more uff than this kid Butcher or this leinhans; and mark these words, is Aube will show you how to row the ball."

CHANGE OF PACE.

Nee went on to state that in his pinion, Butcher did not have to bear own with all his speed to win a me. In fact, it is Butcher's change pace and his downward sweeping rve ball that give him his effectiveess and not so much his fast ball, hich could be very fast indeed if he er starts cutting it loose.

Kleinhans also is fast and has a t of stuff. He also has fairly good ontrol for a southpaw. He and utcher have a good chance to lead e league in strikeouts.

Getting back to Butcher, both Nee d Robinson think that it is the folw through delivery and change of ce that he picked up this spring nder Manager Moore's direction that ade him a winner. Butcher had a itch in his delivery at Mobile, which s been ironed out and increased his ffectiveness. No one knows where got the change of pace. All of a dden, he bobbed up with it.

GOOD ROOKIES.

Next to the statuesque Butcher, it thought that Denny Galehouse, New rleans' rookie righthander, is the stest young pitcher in the league. rville Armbrust, of Memphis, seems have everything, including a very ood curve ball. The outstanding okie pitchers are few and far beveen in the league, however. New rleans has another winning rookie Reddock. Chattanooga has Teddy urrows, the American Legion kid ar, and Memphis has Phil Wagner go with Armbrust.

It is very encouraging to know that f the genuine rookie prospects in e league, Atlanta has at least two, pecially since Blethen and Hearn f the old-timers have passed on and ob Hasty isn't doing so well. The ub has about had enough of Pitcher ufus Meadows. They should have y now. Give them one more pitcher ke Butcher, Kleinhans and Aube nd the Crackers would become a pennant threat overnight.

RUFF AND ROSS GO TO DRAW

Tiny Ruff, Atlanta star, and Jack Ross, West Palm Beach, wrestled to a draw in the feature bout of the wrestling program yesterday afternoon at Lakewood park for the benefit of Battle Hill sanitarium.

Ruff took the first fall with a back body drop in 33 minutes and Ross came back to take the second with a body block in 26 minutes. They were still battling away as the two-hour limit ended.

Tom Malloy threw Rennie McDuffie in nine minutes, four seconds of the one-hour semi-windup. Wagner defeated Terrell in 16 minutes 30 seconds of the preliminary match.

The Atlanta concert band and the drum and bugle corps of the Disabled Veterans of America played during the program.

A good crowd enjoyed the program, sponsored by the Southeastern Fair Association, Mike Benton, president. Matchmaker Bill Corley was pleased with the response given the show, staged for a worthy cause. Net proceeds went into the fund for Battle Hill.

Calloway Shocked At Argoe's Death

Buddy Calloway, of Macon, who toured the dirt tracks for six years as a racing companion of Jack Argoe, Atlanta driver, who was killed Saturday, was one of the pallbearers at the latter's funeral yesterday afternoon.

"I have never had anything that shocked me as much as Jack's death," Calloway stated. He revealed that he and Wesley Argoe, Jack's brother, were en route to Atlanta when the racer was killed.

Argoe was killed when a steering kunckle on his machine broke while he was warming up for the event at Lakewood Park.

Swanson, Copeland Fight at Fort Mac

Ray Swanson, outstanding heavyweight, has been secured to headline the boxing card at Fort McPherson tonight with Shootie Copeland, of Jacksonville, as an opponent. Swanson has fought and beaten the best in the country, including Jack Tunney, Earl Johnson, Ching Johnson, Stiles Attaway and Russ Rowsey, and is the only man who has been able to K. O. Carl Knowles, doing this in Savannah this year. Swanson, a member of the 122d infantry, will be wearing army colors and will represent Fort McPherson on this card. Copeland also holds victories over the best boys in the south and is the only man to get a decision over Swanson.

Benny Mack, dynamic Dixie demon, a fighter of the old school, will return to the squared circle when he meets "Speedy" Paul Matrin, claimant of the southern lightweight championship in a bout scheduled for 10 rounds. Both of these boys are plenty good and the athletic association believes this will be one of the best bouts staged in the south in some time.

An old favorite, Bull Johnson, soldier slugger, will endeavor to make a comeback when he tackles Joe Cornova, Tampa (Fla.) heavyweight, in an 8-round affray.

The 22d infantry orchestra will be on hand to furnish music between bouts.

There will be no increase in admission, the price being: Ringside 50 cents, general admission 35 cents, children 20 cents.

SPANISH WAR VETS GATHER AT ALBANY

State Soldiers of '98 Plan Busy Two-Day Convention.

ALBANY, Ga., May 21.—(AP)—Georgia Veterans of the Spanish War opened their eleventh annual encampment here today with memorial services for departed comrades preceded by dedication exercises at Crown Hill cemetery.

Preparations had been made to entertain 1,000 veterans and auxiliary members who will remain in session until Tuesday.

Tomorrow's main event will be a parade through the business district headed by the band from the Macon camp. Major L. A. Falligant will be marshal. In the line of march will be the Albany guards, department officers and members of the following Georgia camps: Albany, Americus, Athens, Atlanta, Augusta, Brunswick, Columbus, Covington, Elberton, Gainesville, Macon, Rome, Savannah, and Valdosta. Auxiliary members will ride in automobiles.

The initial business session will follow the parade and at 1:45 p. m. a barbecue will be served at the Radium Springs picnic grounds.

Department officers, camp commanders, auxiliary presidents, and national officers will be given a dinner Monday night.

Committee reports, election of officers and selection of the 1934 meeting place will take up the Tuesday morning business meeting.

SAVANNAH PREPARES FOR MARITIME DAY

SAVANNAH, Ga., May 21.—Savannah will observe National Maritime Day Monday night at a banquet at the DeSoto hotel. It was from Savannah that Captain Moses Rogers sailed on the steamship City of Savannah in 1819 to make a trip across the Atlantic without having to depend upon the wind to get him there.

It is announced by Raymond D. Sullivan, chairman of a committee from the Savannah Chamber of Commerce, that there will be three well known out-of-town speakers. These will include Captain Gatewood S. Lincoln, of California and Washington, chairman of the United States shipping board; Joseph T. Lykes, of New York, president of the American Steamship Owners' Association, and J. Caldwell Jenkins, of New York, vice president of the Black Diamond Steamship Company. Mr. Lincoln, who is expected to make the principal address of the evening, is to talk on the subject, "The American Merchant Marine." There will also be short talks by Savannah shipping men, city officials and others.

A unique setting for the dinner will be the display of a miniature of the original City of Savannah. This model, is about 20 feet in length and carries every detail of the world famous ship. The story of the building of the City of Savannah, its equipment and its departure from Savannah and return after an absence of several months will be recited.

Pleasant A. Stovall, chairman of the bicentennial commission of the state, and others interested in the bicentennial were active in having Maritime Day set aside by the government. New York and Savannah are the only ports to observe it this year. Gordon Saussy, of this city, has gone to New York to speak on the occasion of the observance of the day there Monday.

SECESSION MARKER IN 1861 CAPITOL

MILLEDGEVILLE, Ga., May 21. The hall in which the famous secession convention was held in Milledgeville was marked with a handsome bronze tablet, unveiled Sunday afternoon by Mrs. Anna M. Green Cook, Baldwin county writer, who was a little girl at the time the convention was held.

The ceremonies, arranged under the auspices of the Robert E. Lee chapter of the U. D. C., Mrs. R. B. Moore, president, were impressive, and attended by a large number of people from this entire section. Major Sam Whatley, of the faculty of the Georgia Military College, was master of ceremonies. The G. M. C. band, directed by Major Godfrey Osterman, and the G. S. C. W. glee club, under the direction of Miss Alice Lenore Tucker, rendered a musical program. Judge Alexander H. Stephens, of the Georgia court of appeals, descendant of Vice President Alexander H. Stephens, of the Confederacy, was the guest speaker of the occasion.

The secession hall is now the auditorium of the Georgia Military College, of which Colonel George S. Roach is president.

The U. D. C. committee, which has been in charge of arrangements for the marker, includes: Mrs. R. B. Moore, president; Mrs. H. D. Allen, Mrs. J. L. Beeson and Mrs. David Ferguson.

DUNNING IS URGED FOR FEDERAL POST

WASHINGTON, May 21.—Efforts are being put forward by a group of southern republican leaders to have M. O. Dunning, collector of customs at Savannah, named as a republican member of one of the bi-partisan boards or commissions in Washington.

Overtures to this end have already been made to the Roosevelt administration, it was learned today, and a number of strong indorsements in behalf of the Savannah man are expected to be forthcoming shortly.

There are several such commissions which must have representation from both major parties. Friends of Mr. Dunning are proceeding on the theory that a southern republican might as well be given one of the places.

He has been suggested for either the federal tariff commission or the federal trade body, both of which come within the bi-partisan category. President Roosevelt has not yet found time to reorganize either commission, but is expected to fill some of the offices before congress adjourns next month.

In addition to southern republican support, Collector Dunning has a number of democratic friends who are prepared to urge his appointment so long as it would not involve an office otherwise going to a democrat.

Georgia Elks Meet Today at Brunswick

BRUNSWICK, Ga., May 21.—(AP) Georgia Elks will celebrate the bicentennial of the state and the 65th anniversary of their order in the annual convention here tomorrow and Tuesday.

Leaders from all parts of the state will discuss the founding of Georgia 200 years ago by General James Edward Oglethorpe, and its subsequent development.

Georgia News Told in Brief

Milledgeville Primary.

MILLEDGEVILLE, Ga., May 21. August 2 has been set as the date for the Milledgeville city primary, when a mayor and three aldermen will be named. Mayor J. A. Horne, who is serving his first term, will offer for re-election. The three aldermen, Sidney D. Stembridge, L. H. Andrews and W. H. Arnall, whose terms expire, have not indicated whether they will seek re-election.

Wild Kittens.

SAVANNAH, Ga., May 21.—F. E. Ellis, well-known Savannahian, has two new boarders at this home—and he is feeding them on milk from a bottle. The youngsters are baby wildcats and they appear to be only a few weeks old. Mr. Ellis owns a good deal of property in Cuyler swamp. A few days ago a body of workers were put into the swamp to clear it up and drain it. The workers found the two kittens.

SAVANNAH, Ga., May 21.—Judge R. N. Hardeman, of Louisville, judge of the middle Georgia circuit of the superior court, is to be in Savannah again Thursday to sit for Judge Peter W. Meldrim. Judge Meldrim is much stronger than he was after his recent illness but not yet able to tackle the full work of his court.

To Dedicate Church.

FAIR MOUNT, Ga., May 21.—The Methodist church here will be formally dedicated Sunday, May 28, at which time all former members, as well as interested friends are cordially invited to attend. The noon hour will be given over to a basket dinner, spread under the near-by towering oaks. L. P. Harris, Miss Maude Erwin and Mrs. Edna F. Tate compose the committee on arrangements, and a most interesting program is being arranged for the event.

REVIEWING THE SHOWS

"Kiss Before the Mirror" Unusual and Dramatic

"The Kiss Before the Mirror," a highly dramatic story of two men, two women and the unwritten law, may well be regarded as one of the most unusual films seen in Atlanta in recent months.

The production, involving murder, suspicion, suspense and a tense trial, opened a week's engagement at the Fox theater Saturday night before a crowded house.

With an excellently selected cast, and an impressive score of incidental music, the play that was adapted by Williams Anthony McGuire from Ladislaus Fodor's European stage sensation is quite different from the average of this type.

It concerns wifely infidelity and husbandly revenge. Frank Morgan, giving one of the best performances of his career, is a lawyer called in to defend his best friend (Paul Lukas), who killed his wife when he found her disrobing in her lover's bedroom. Morgan, learning how Lukas detected his wife's unfaithfulness by her expression of disgust when he kissed her before the mirror, returns home and repeats his friend's experiment. His wife (Nancy Carroll) reveals a similar reaction and his suspicion that she is dressing herself for another man is later confirmed when he follows her.

He realizes that he now must defend his friend for a deed he himself contemplates, and the tense moments that follow and the rather surprising climax make the picture top-notch entertainment.

The Fanchon and Marco stage show also is extraordinary, with the program headed by an act billed as "Harris Twins and Loretta," who perform a spectacular adagio dance.

In addition, Jimmy Beers, at the great Fox organ, with a new arrangement of impressive music; a Mickey Mouse cartoon; "Sportlight" short subject and a newsreel are on the bill.

—GEORGE HATCHER.

High-Grade Acting Saves Picture at Paramount

A story which is just slightly shopworn is the subject of the feature picture this week at the Paramount theater, which stars Fredric March and Cary Grant and has for added attraction Jack Oakie and Carole Lombard. But like most shopworn articles, it has a few things about it which makes it a bargain.

Performances by the above mentioned four are without flaw. One would expect little less from March, who won the Motion Picture Academy award, or from Grant, who has been a featured player for some time. No less entertaining is Jack Oakie, the gentleman who furnishes what comedy there is in "The Eagle and the Hawk," which happens to be the name of the picture. Miss Lombard, who has been starred previously in her own right, portrays a lady (well known in war times) who proves exceedingly entertaining to soldiers off to their deaths—understanding, motherly, sweetheartish and all that but who ends up by deserting the hotel bedroom before the officer-gentleman awakes.

March and Grant attempt what is well night impossible—to make new a story which has been the subject of many a movie. March depicts the man who slays in war because it is his duty; Grant the man who kills for the love of killing. The eagle and the hawk! The story has an original ending, however, which makes it a bargain.

Events prove the Hawk not so bad at heart after all and tends to give the picture the punch it lacks in its main theme.

Bob Hess, the new Paramount organist, has a thrilling bit in his skit, "The Phantom Organist." Comedies and newsreels complete the program.

—FRANK DRAKE.

Warren Williams Stars In 'Employes Entrance'

Warren Williams, a cinematic newcomer, who recently did creditable work in the title role of a screen play called "The Match King," is co-featured currently at the Georgia theater with Loretta Young in "Employes' Entrance," a First National film dealing with goings-on within a metropolitan department store.

Williams is the store's ruthless general manager, who believes in plenty of work and little play for his employes. Clerks are discharged if they buy merchandise in other stores. Male employes are urged—or rather warned not to marry, the idea being that such a course would impair their efficiency.

Believing that association with women should be intermittent and ephemeral, the general manager pursues such a theory in choosing his female employes, one of whom is Miss Young. She is in love with the G. M.'s dynamic young assistant, Wallace Ford, and ultimately they are married, despite all admonitions to the contrary. Williams learns of their marriage, and therein lies a large portion of the story.

Returning to the screen after an absence of several years, Alice White is commendable as one of the store employes, whose cardinal ambition is the rapid accumulation of money.

The usual newsreel, comedy and short subjects are included in the bill.

The Georgia's program changes Wednesday, at which time "Terror Abroad" starts a three-day engagement.

TWO NEGROES KILLED IN TRAIN ACCIDENT

MONTEZUMA, Ga., May 21.—(AP) Two negroes are known to have been killed and an undetermined number of other persons are believed to be buried in the wreckage of 27 freight cars on the Birmingham & Coast railroad, six miles west of here, early today.

Jack Holt and Fay Wray Please Patrons at Rialto

Jack Holt, playing at the Rialto this week in "The Woman I Stole," has a role quite familiar to his legion of fans and, as usual, he handles it in a way as to completely charm the feminine customers without irritating that old-fashioned school which thinks of men as men.

The story is based on that famous novel, "Tampico," by Joseph Hergesheimer, and is a rather faithful interpretation except that the locale is in Africa. Donald Cook gives Holt a run for the money as the husband of the woman Handsome Jack plans to steal.

Fay Wray, the beautiful, gives the plot the necessary all-round appeal. Wife of one and aspiring to be the mistress of another, she is left behind in Africa while Holt and another man, with a Spanish dancer, come to America to make whoopee. Noah Beery, as brigand chief, and Raquel Torres, as the dancer, are the others in lead roles.

This picture, continuing the Rialto's "Spring Festival of Joy," is a fine piece of screen entertainment and up to the standard of an exceptional series of special bookings of pictures for the Rialto festival.

Short subjects round out the bill.

ROUND TABLE OF BUSINESS

A General Weekly Review of Commerce and Industry Affecting the Greater Atlanta Trade Territory

Edited By JACK TUBBS

Lowest Coal Prices in Years Offered by Atlantic Ice & Coal Company

USERS ARE URGED TO SUPPLY NEEDS BEFORE ADVANCE

Home Owners and Commercial Enterprises Now Can Get Prompt Delivery of Finest Grades.

Despite the steady upward spiraling of business and industry in every line, the attendant inflationary measures and the consequent increase in commodity prices, the price of one of the year's most important commodities—coal—is still at almost its lowest level in many years, according to the Atlantic Ice and Coal Company.

However, officers of the company point out, there is every indication that prices of coal will begin to rise within the next few weeks.

A word to the wise should be sufficient!

Home owners and industrial coal buyers are urged to give a thought now to coal needs for the summer and the coming cold winter days. They are urged, too, to remember that at the Atlantic Ice and Coal Company, if they take immediate advantage of the values offered, they can get the lowest prices within the memory of local coal dealers, as well as the highest quality coal on the market.

There is no question, the dealers state, but that prices will experience a sharp advance very soon, and one buying now will make a purchase much to his economic advantage.

This, according to officers of the Atlantic Ice and Coal Company, applies not only to the retail buyer, but to the man who buys for industrial uses.

In this latter connection, it is pointed out, the Atlantic Ice and Coal Company prides itself particularly upon the quality and "cleanliness" of its industrial coal, of which it keeps a constant reserve supply of several thousand tons at all times.

By "cleanliness" is meant absolute freedom from slag, rock, nails or other foreign matter, which, together with the fine burning qualities of Atlantic's product, gives double assurance of clean, free-burning furnaces. A visit to any of the company's seven yards is invited. The user, whether home owner or commercial user, will need but one look to satisfy himself that the Atlantic Ice and Coal Company's product is of the finest and cleanest grades only.

Coal bought from the Atlantic Ice and Coal Company in carload lots never touches the ground from the time it is loaded at the mines until it is delivered to the consumer. This is made possible by the splendid facilities available at the Atlanta yards, where, by the use of elevated tracks, coal is loaded direct from the railroad car to the delivery trucks.

The Atlantic Ice and Coal Company is equipped with a fleet of the most modern trucks, which insure prompt delivery of orders of any size. This splendid service is available to every section of metropolitan Atlanta, as the company maintains seven yards for the convenience of its patrons.

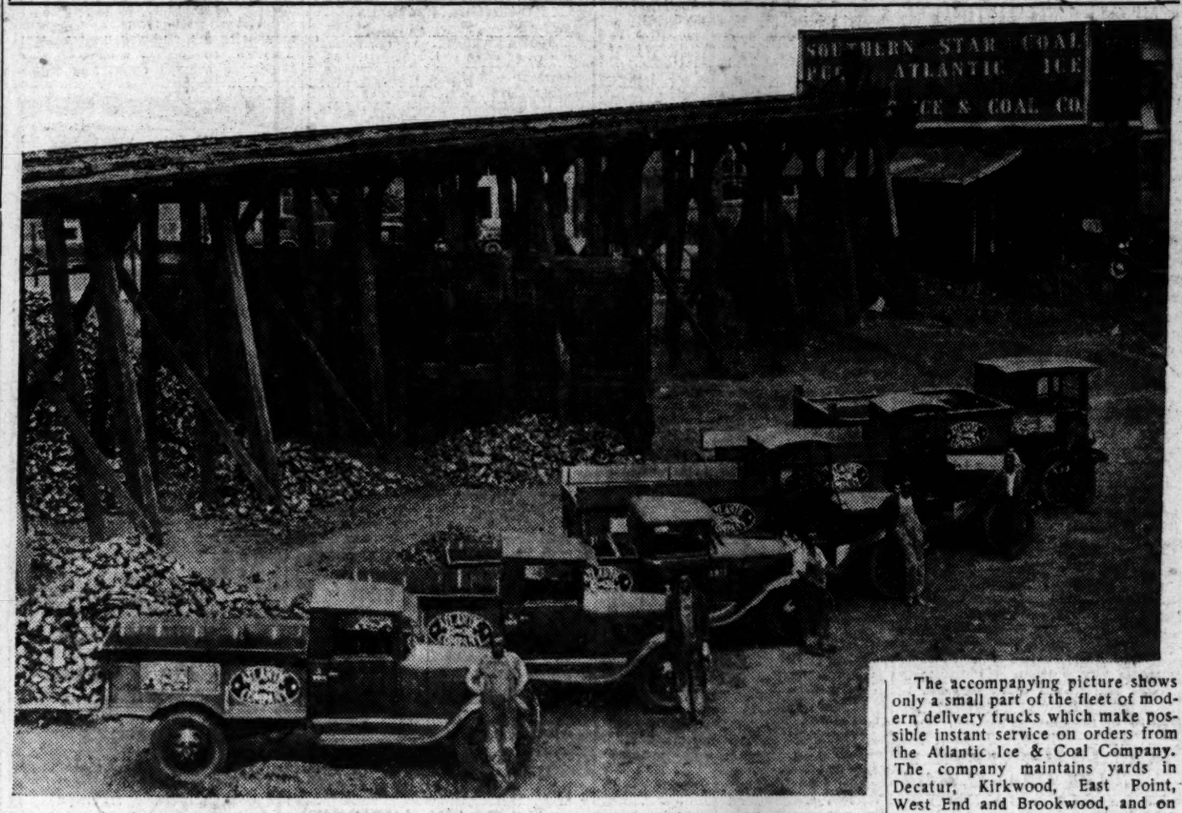

These yards are situated in Decatur, Kirkwood, East Point, West End and Brookwood, and on Boulevard and on Thurmond street.

Since it maintains yards in every section of the city and its principal environs, the company is adequately prepared for almost instantaneous delivery, and especially invites orders when prompt delivery is required. One order will convince the user of the company's instant service policy.

The user's special attention is directed to the fact that the summer and fall normally will bring many additional and unexpected or unaccounted for expenses which in many cases leave him in a "tight spot" when the first chill days of autumn bring the need for coal. In many instances the home owner is caught napping with the arrival of cold weather, perhaps at a time when he is least able to spend money for coal. As a reminder and a safeguard against such an uncomfortable situation the Atlantic Ice and Coal Company urges home owners and commercial users to lay in adequate supplies now, while prices are so low.

With coal values certain to rise drastically within a very short time, the company urges prompt consideration of the needs of the coming months and invites immediate investigation of its rates.

Economy . . . . Prompt Delivery . . . . Quality

The accompanying picture shows only a small part of the fleet of modern delivery trucks which make possible instant service on orders from the Atlantic Ice & Coal Company. The company maintains yards in Decatur, Kirkwood, East Point, West End and Brookwood, and on Boulevard and on Thurmond street, thus assuring quick delivery to any part of metropolitan Atlanta.

Factory employment in Pennsylvania increased 1 per cent and wage payments 5 per cent from the middle of March to the middle of April, the Federal Reserve bank of Philadelphia reports.

COTTON DECLINE FOLLOWS BULGE

NEW ORLEANS, May 21.—(AP)—Trading in cotton contracts has been again fairly active during the past week, although there have been periods of hesitation and quiet, particularly in early week. The general trend of prices has been reactionary, although early in the week the October position advanced to within 3 points of the high level of the recent upward movement or to 9.16 due to hope that the European political situation would clear up.

Later in the week liquidation by longs developed on a fairly liberal scale and there was also considerable hedge selling said to be largely against so-called Red Cross cotton. The main influence back of the liquidation was the improvement in the weather in the interior and more favorable advices as to the progress of the crop. Planting has been finished except in the extreme north and the early planted is showing better stands. The weather has also permitted more active cultivation.

As a result of liquidation and hedge selling, prices eased off nearly $3 a bale from the early highs, and the week closed with prices practically at the lows for the week and showing a net loss compared with a week ago of nearly $3.25.

High, low and closing sales in the futures market during the past week compared with a year ago follow:

	High.	Low.	Close.	Last Year.

$5,935,000...Saved for Customers
1,937,000...More for Taxes
470,000...For Employee Insurance

$8,342,000 . . . Less for Investors

MANY people do not realize that electric rates have come down. Over a period of years the rates for electricity have declined far more than the cost of living.

If Associated Gas & Electric System customers had been charged at the 1928 average rate for their 1932 use, their total bills last year would have been approximately $5,935,000 higher—

Residential customers would have paid $4,926,000 more. Commercial and Power customers would have paid $1,009,000 more.

Based on data for the industry as a whole, rates also declined between 1926 and 1928, so that if 1926 rates had been paid for 1932 use it is estimated Associated residential customers would have paid $6,884,000 more and commercial and power customers $2,511,000 more—a total of $9,395,000.

Reductions in electric rates since 1928 have been made in spite of steadily mounting taxes. Taxes per dollar of Associated System operating revenue, excluding Federal income taxes which are not comparable, were 39% higher in 1932 than in 1926.

If the Associated System had paid the 1926 tax rate on its 1932 operating revenue, the tax bill would have been $1,937,000 less.

Electric rates are far below and taxes are far above the levels to which it is proposed to raise commodity prices. Customers are paying much less — government is receiving much more—13,200 employees are insured under a comprehensive plan. But there are others who also deserve consideration.

Investors, including such public institutions as banks and insurance companies, as well as individuals, have a large interest in the utilities. Their investments made possible more efficient plants and distribution systems, with a consequent saving to customers. Their investments are responsible for the growth of the industry and its importance as a source of taxation. Their investments created jobs for thousands of employees.

If customers had paid the 1928 average rate for 1932 use of electricity; taxes for 1932 had been paid at the 1926 rate; and employees had not been insured then, after providing for additional Federal income taxes which would have had to be paid—and 78,000 holders of Preferred and Preference Stock (whose dividends have been passed) and of Convertible Obligations (whose interest is being paid in scrip) would receive the cash return to which they are entitled.

Applying 1926 figures for electricity as well as taxes and including employee insurance, earnings would be $1.49 per share. The remaining loss of earnings which should have accrued to the equity would then be due mostly to the slowing down of business.

The burden of increased taxes and decreased rates falls directly on investors. The fact that their investments have contributed so much to the customer, the government and the employee entitles them to consideration. Should not the essential service of investors be recognized?

Woodrow Wilson's Comment on Life Insurance—
"IF a man does not provide for his children, if he does not provide for all those dependent upon him, and if he has not that vision of conditions to come, and that care for the days that have not yet dawned, which we sum up in the whole idea of thrift and saving, then he has not opened his eyes to any adequate conception of human life. We are in this world to provide not for ourselves, but for others, and that is the basis of economy."

TARZAN THE APE MAN No. 49 — By Edgar Rice Burroughs

The she-ape came yelling to join the fight on Tarzan's side. Together, they made short work of the coveting bull-ape. He fell out of the tree and landed heavily on the ground. Tarzan and the she-ape looked down together, grinning.

Then they turned to each other, chattered and patted each other's faces affectionately. After a moment Tarzan left the she-ape to Jean, who drew back in horror. The more the she-ape tried to be friendly, the more terrified the girl became.

Seeing her abject terror, Tarzan was puzzled at first. Then he understood. He prevented the she-ape from touching the girl. The ape's feelings were deeply wounded. She moved away through the tree with injured dignity. A little way, off she turned and chattered agnrily.

She moved off, turning frequently, each time more angry. Finally she perched on a limb some 50 feet away and in ape talk, gave an unflattering description of the character and ancestry of Tarzan's girl. One by one the other apes joined her, until the whole group was yelling indignantly.

BOND MART RISES ON BUSINESS TIDE

Rails, Industrial Issues Show Trend Toward Firmer Prices.

By VICTOR EUBANK.

NEW YORK, May 21.—(AP)—The bond market again pushed forward to new high levels for the year during the past week as optimistic business and industrial news continued to overshadow inflationary possibilties.

The trend, throughout most of the trading, was toward firmer prices. This was especially true of the railways and industrials. The utilities were inclined to lag at times in the face of legislative uncertainties.

Not only did the majority of secondary issues record improvement, but highest grade corporate maturities maintained a steady to firm position. Of encouragement to traders and investors were the reports of leading carriers which indicated that freight car loadings probably were exceeding those of last year at this time; the increase of steel production to its best rate in the past two years; gains in electric power output, and decided improvement in the automobile and textile industries.

Although the industrial group was heartened by prospects of profit in the administration's $3,300,000,000 public works program United States government securities tended to sag as followers of this section waited for word on the financing of the huge spending plans.

Foreign obligations were irregular. The Germans, after slumping to new 1933 lows, rallied following Chancelor Hitler's speech to the reichstag. Both British and French bonds were soft, but loans of Japan rallied substantially.

TOBACCO ACREAGE RISE PROBLEM FOR WALLACE

(This is the fifth and last of a series of stories explaining powers centered in the secretary of agriculture under the new farm act. It relates to his authority to deal with tobacco.)

By ROY F. HENDRICKSON.

WASHINGTON, May 21.—(AP)—The department of agriculture's summary of farmers' intentions to plant, issued in March, disclosed that the largest expansion of acreage of any crop was planned this year by tobacco growers.

Reports of farmers indicated a probable acreage increase of more than 20 per cent—this despite increasing difficulties in exporting tobaccos and a large surplus of many types.

In approaching the special problems of the tobacco growers in an effort to better his price returns, Secretary Wallace has authority under the new farm adjustment act to work out acreage reduction agreements with growers, but the lateness of the act's final passage, coming at a time when a large proportion of the crop already had been planted, has virtually eliminated any chance of attempting acreage curtailment this year.

A plan to accomplish that may be worked out for next year with Wallace given power to levy processing taxes to provide funds to pay benefits or rewards to growers cutting their output. This method could be based on the general principles of the voluntary domestic allotment plan or any other method that Wallace might devise under provisions of the farm act which would reduce the supply of tobacco and improve prices.

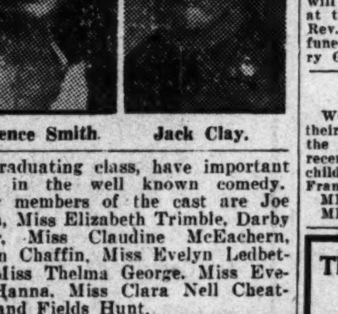

The secretary of agriculture can enter into trade agreements with the processors and distributors in an effort to improve the price levels for both raw and finished tobaccos. The goal of price improvement effort for tobacco is different than for the other basic commodities, it being based on prices paid farmers from August, 1919, to July, 1929. For other basic crops the base period is August, 1909, to July, 1914.

The different price base for tobacco came about largely as a result of changes in the industry which became apparent at about the time of the World War when cigarets grew in popularity and tobacco raised especially for their manufacture grew in demand.

Curb Mart Advance Led by Industrial

By JOHN L. COOLEY.

NEW YORK, May 21.—(AP)—Strength in industrial and special stocks featured the curb market last week. Gains by many such issues were substantial, although speculative demand for shares of other descriptions was fairly broad.

Increasing business activity directed attention particularly to equities of manufacturing company. Particularly favored were the two Swift issues, Hazel Atlas Glass, Pepperell Manufacturing, Sherwin Williams and the celanese listings.

Continued improvement in electric power output helped utilities. Electric Bond & Share stocks were especially active at advancing prices.

Oil shares rallied vigorously on introduction of the house bill empowering the secretary of the interior to enforce output quotas in each state.
